PRETTY POOR CHRISTMAS PRESENT — Kay Gattis (left foreground) watches helplessly Wednesday afternoon as fire consumes the remains of the $25,000 home she and husband Wayne built six years ago. The house was a total loss.

Fire guts home east of Georgetown

The second major Williamson County fire in just two days swept through a home four miles east of Georgetown Wednesday afternoon, destroying the structure completely.

Wayne Gattis, an IBM employee, said he and his wife Kay built the three-bedroom house six years ago at a cost of about $25,000.

Both were away when the fire was reported to the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Department about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Gattis' father, Albert "Babe" Raum of Route 4, said he saw the fire and thought it was a grass fire out of control beyond the house.

UPON REACHING the home however, he found the flames were coming from the attic of the house. Climbing upon a support in the double garage, he said, he poked his head into the attic. "There was fire all around me up there," Raum recalled. "I grabbed a hose and tried sprinkling water around, but it didn't do any good."

Raum drove to a neighbor's house, where he called out, "Kay's house is on fire" and asked the neighbor to call the fire department.

Georgetown volunteers soon arrived with equipment and men, and volunteers also came from Jarrell, Round Rock, and Hutto. Jarrell sent a booster truck and Round Rock sent a rural fire vehicle similar to the one used by Georgetown.

"THIRTY OR FORTY MINUTES earlier we might have been able to save it," said Raum, "but it was just too far gone when we got back. The firemen did all they could, but it was just too late."

Besides their home, the Gattis family lost all their furniture, clothes, and other possessions. "We managed to get the boat and a motorcycle and a lawn mower out of the garage before it burned down, but that was about all," said Kay Gattis.

Starting at a blackened chimney rising starkly above the ruined walls, the only remains of the

Week's news in a nutshell

TWO WEEKS INTO THE DRIVE for a new Georgetown Area Hospital, Campaign General Chairman J. H. Compton said contribution pledges totalling over $150,000 have been received from residents of Georgetown and western Williamson County.

"Everybody is really enthused about it," Compton said. "We're doing fine." The goal of the campaign is to raise $350,000 in the western half of the county to help construct a new 60-bed hospital east of I35 in Georgetown.

Services mark Christmas

By Gayle Blake

Christmas is the celebration of the birth of Jesus and is first and foremost a holy day, a time of rejoicing over the good news that God sent his Son as the Saviour of mankind.

Too often the real meaning of Christmas is lost in the hustle and bustle of Christmas preparation such as buying and selling gifts and entertaining.

The churches of Georgetown have many services which can fulfill the primary purpose of Christmas, which is the reaffirming of the angels' song, "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth, peace, goodwill toward men."

Grace Episcopal Church will present a solemn Christmas Liturgy at 11 p. m. Christmas Eve and again at 10 a. m. Christmas Day. Communion will be celebrated at midnight.

The Evangelical Free Church Christmas Cantata will be presented at 7 p. m. Sunday, December 21. A choir presentation will be entitled "Love Transcending" and the Sunday School program is "The Best Gift."

At St. Helen's Catholic Church Midnight Mass will be held Christmas Eve with Christmas music beginning at 11:30 p. m. by the Girls' Choir. Christmas Day Masses will be said at 8, 9:30 and 11 a. m.

Christmas Eve Mass will be at 8 p. m. at Santa Rosa Catholic Church in Andice.

Christmas confession schedule will be 3:30 to 5 p. m. Saturday, 4 to 5 p. m. and 7:30 to 9 p. m. Monday and Tuesday; and 10:30 a. m. to noon and 3:30 to 5 p. m. Wednesday.

First United Methodist Church will have a Christmas Eve Communion Service, with worship at 7 p. m. and communion served continuously from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.

There will be a Christmas Tableau in the chancel by the youth of the church and readings by the Almquist family, Marsha Russell and James Raper.

First Assembly of God will present their annual Christmas program at 7 p. m. Sunday, December 21, entitled "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

First Presbyterian Church will hold their annual Christmas candlelight service at 6:30 p. m. Sunday, December 21.

There will be a Christmas party for Sunday School children at 6 p. m. Christmas Eve.

St. John's Methodist Church will have their main Christmas service at 5:30 Christmas morning.

Called Jul Otta Service, worship leaders will be junior and senior high students in conjunction with the church sponsored Boy Scout Troop.

The senior high youth will present a live manger scene in front of the church Tuesday and Wednesday nights, from 7 to 9 p. m.

Hospital gifts use explained

Residents of western Williamson County will ask many questions within the next two months about the fund drive for a new Georgetown Area Hospital, and they'll probably include this one:

WHAT WILL HAPPEN to gifts of cash and pledges until they are needed to build the new hospital?

Ken Poteete, Georgetown Hospital administrator, said Friday, "The money will be deposited in a special account at a bank."

"After we secure a $2.7 million loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), we will periodically draw from the account our share of pro-rata payments to construction contractors."

"After payment, the rest of the money will remain in interest-bearing securities, probably certificates of deposit, until time for the next payment."

"The interest the money earns at whatever the current rate is will go toward reducing the amount of the FmHA debt."

POTEETE ALSO REPORTED that employees of the Georgetown Hospital and Clinic have contributed over $10,000 in cash and pledges.

"I'm very gratified that our staff has shown this kind of support for the project," said Poteete. "It's just outstanding."

The fund drive, scheduled for completion by March 1, has already netted over $150,000 of a $350,000 goal.

For ambulance employees

Commissioners' Court to set hours and wages

Despite several previous postponements, hours and wages for County Ambulance Service employees are expected to be set during the Tuesday Commissioners' Court meeting.

A 48-hour work period, followed by 48 hours off, is the schedule which has received most attention from the commissioners. Wage schedules between $600 and $675 monthly have been set up by County Auditor Ben Kripko's office for the commissioners' consideration.

Although the court had passed a $40 per month across-the-board raise for county employees, commissioners stipulated that ambulance employees would not be included in the raise. Ambulance technicians had previously been employed by the individual cities. Since the county technically has paid them no salary, it cannot vote raises for them.

The wages and hours item was tabled during the December 8 court so commissioners could meet with the Labor Board December 10. Because there had not been enough time to prepare alternate wage schedules for the December 11 general meeting, action was again tabled.

COMMISSIONERS will also consider the resignation of Deputy Dale Swofford. Swofford announced his candidacy for Sheriff Friday.

Since notification of the resignation was made too late to go on the December 8 agenda, his resignation was noted by the court, but no official action could be taken on an item not on the agenda.

The court will also consider the appointment of a deputy to replace Swofford.

A request by the County Historical Commission concerning extra Xeroxing will also be reconsidered Monday. During the December 8 meeting the request was discussed, but commissioners did not have enough information about quantities and types of duplication to take action.

Additionally, the court will consider the resignation of Mrs. Clara Scarbrough, chairman of the Historical Commission.

"It is with a lot of regret that I step out, because I enjoyed it so much," Mrs. Scarbrough said of her chairmanship. She explained that she will be under a heavy responsibility to the city of Georgetown during its national bicentennial planning and celebration.

She does, however, plan to continue working for the Commission, though not in the executive capacity.

Mrs. Scarbrough is resigning from her second consecutive term as Historical Commission chairman. She held the position for three years.

A LEASE CONTRACT with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) for offices in the renovated Farmers' State Bank building on Austin Avenue is another item scheduled for the December 22 agenda. A bid of

Harry Gold named CAPCO chairman

Harry Gold, Georgetown business and civic leader, was named chairman of The Capital Area Planning Council, a 10 county governmental agency, at its annual general meeting in Austin this week.

Gold, (past pro-tem mayor) and past Georgetown Chamber of Commerce president, had served as vice chairman of CAPCO (sometimes also called COG,) for the past four years. He was named to the board of directors of the organization six years ago.

CAPCO is operating on a $500,000 dollar budget, funded by the federal and state government and by local dues. Cities pay 10 cents per capita and counties ante up 5 cents per head.

The agency serves largely as a review board for the many federal grants that are now available to cities and counties. Whenever Georgetown, for instance, has a project it wants to get funded it lays the project in CAPCO's lap. The project is then reviewed by the proper committee, which then recommends to the executive committee, which meets monthly. This top committee, chaired now by Gold, makes the final decision to recommend or disapprove.

Projects include those dealing with highways, criminal justice, the aging, environment, drug abuse and are among many decided upon, Gold said.

It is also involved in helping the unemployable and handicapped train and develop skills necessary to find jobs. It has programs to develop more efficient law enforcement.

One of the more recent accomplishments of COG was a central dispatch system for law enforcement officers in the 10 county region that has already proven helpful, Gold pointed out.

"It's an honor and a challenge," Gold said.

WHEN CHRISTMAS COMETH in an odd year, can politics be far behind? Nope, and 1976 is going to be a big'un!

It appears that Williamson County will have an unusually large number of races, with quite a few hats already in the ring, including a GOP sombrero, of all things!

Then, of course, there is the national spectacle, with Ford already beleaguered by Ronald Reagan. At least one of our United States Senators is trying his wings for the presidency, along with dozens of other hopefuls. It doesn't matter what else happens, we can count on hearing a lot of political speeches in 1976.

Personally, I have already heard a political speech.

One of the things I am impressed with in church is the debt we owe the talented musicians who sing those beautiful songs and play the musical instruments so well. All churches have their favorites, of course, but since I am Methodist I have to limit my experiences there.

THE GEORGE NELSON family is my prime example. Mrs. Nelson (Frances), who sang for a number of years but no longer does, was my all-time favorite. How I used to enjoy her singing! All the Nelsons, papa, mama and the three children are musical and have added tremendously to the enjoyment of our church services. You can say the same for Tom and Corinne Douglass and one of our current stars is Tanya (Mrs. Dan) Gode. I won't try to name all of our musicians because that can't be done without neglecting some of the deserving, but the above are examples. They enrich our lives and soothe the soul. From me, thanks.

Trouble in Gallupville

Paul Harvey

Uncle Sam is the unwilling host to a horde of unwelcome visitors.

You want to know one reason our nation's improving economy is unable to soak up its unemployed? It's because there are millions of immigrants in the United States — illegally.

ILLEGAL ALIENS are streaming into the United States in such numbers that immigration officials use expressions such as "flood" and "national crisis" to describe the invasion.

Los Angeles City Councilman David Cunningham says half of the residents in his district are officially "invisible" because they are illegal aliens.

According to the census there are 14,000 people in his district; actually there are 30,000.

Technically, illegal aliens are not supposed to take jobs, yet hiring them is perfectly legal.

And these are no longer mostly Mexican wetbacks working in the fields of the Southwest. Now they are working in heavy industry, light industry, construction, driving taxis, working in clothing factories and restaurants.

TWO GREEK BROTHERS who jumped ship in New York were found months later in a crew painting the Statue of Liberty.

House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter Rodino (D-N.J.) concedes that aliens are holding many jobs that normally would be filled by American workers but his bill to make employment of illegal immigrants illegal has repeatedly been stalled in the Senate.

Even if the Rodino bill passes, the Immigration Service can do little to enforce it without first hiring an army of enforcement officers to increase its present staff of 4,200.

At the Mexican border we've been installing electronic sensors developed for the Vietnamese war to try to catch some of the more-than-a-million who cross that border illegally each year.

And, as in Vietnam, we are winning some battles but losing the war.

In Chicago alone some 350,000 illegal Mexican aliens have settled; the city catches up with maybe 12,000 a year.

IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS say they are concentrating their efforts on apprehending illegal aliens holding jobs which might otherwise go to native and naturalized Americans.

But this leaves other tens of thousands maintaining themselves on "welfare" with forged credentials which they can readily purchase for $25 to $100.

Illegal immigrants on welfare cost California $100 million a year!

When times were good Americans were more willing to "look the other way," but the recession-bred unemployment has roused resentment.

Even in Hawaii — our most hospitable and homogeneous state — where almost everybody is from elsewhere, legal Vietnam refugees are being turned away because they are an unwanted burden on the economy.

AMERICA CONTINUES to add 400,000 legal immigrants a year and illegal ones by the millions.

Eight million is the most educated guesstimate of the number of illegal aliens now in the United States — precisely the same as the number of our nation's present unemployed.

A newspaper article recently indicated that the polling profession is in trouble. It seems that the men and women who go the rounds to make inquiries of you and me about all subjects under the sun are encountering a strange resistance. There was a time when almost everyone had a secret longing to have his opinions polled. Now the response to the ringing of the doorbell is, if any, a furtive peering from behind drawn blinds, and then silence and darkness. Where the pollsters used to be assured of getting a response from 80 percent of those selected, they can now scarcely count upon 60.

Certain obvious explanations present themselves. People in the cities are scared; they do not readily open their door to the stranger. They are also much on the move, so that among those over 14 years of age the chances of anyone's being at home at a given time are statistically reduced. Finally, people are growing more concerned with their privacy. Having been peered at by sociologists, grilled by tax assessors, questioned more or less gently by students in quest of a Ph.D. they are quite prepared to keep their opinions to themselves.

Such hypotheses are persuasive, and by themselves should make the pollsters uneasy. But there is, it seems to me, a deeper reason, one which if carried to its logical conclusion could negate the concept of polling and indeed revolutionize American life. This is a determination by the people — inarticulate and perhaps still largely unconscious — to find leaders in culture, in commerce and in politics who are prepared to offer them something better than a mishmash of their own previously stated opinions. They look for men who will take risks, going beyond the public's poorly conceived preferences and imperfectly expressed assumptions.

A basis for my explanation is to be found in the distress said to be felt by many segments of the country's so-called decisionmakers. According to the newspapers' report of the pollsters' troubles, the politician is demanding how he can act if the people don't tell him what he should do; the publisher and producer are asking what light will be left for their work in, the advertising director is at loose ends. The discomfiture of these eminent gentlemen may be precisely what the public is, in its own way, seeking to accomplish. Examining my own feelings I find that I, too, take a wry satisfaction in their confusion.

Have we not all had enough of the politician who waits to be polled before committing himself to a position? I have read accounts of a book or movie which has supposedly been assured of success because every ingredient has been pretested. The subject-matter of the plot, the title, even the color of the jacket in the case of a book, have all been put together according to what the public has been found to prefer. And what is the result? The result is something the public ignores and discards, and that no amount of advertising will induce it to consume. In the same way the public will in the end reject a politician who gives them back only what he has been told they want.

We touch here on one of the oldest paradoxes of democracy. If the leader disregards men's desires and is deaf to their complaint, he will prove himself either a dictator or a fool. If he adapts to them slavishly he will betray the public he is called to serve. The true decision-maker does not mirror the polls. His vision goes deeper than the demands of the day, and embraces a country which the majority of his constituents have scarcely yet glimpsed. He has an instinctive deference to their wishes; he recalls, in Socrates' homely phrase, that they are best situated to know "where the shoe pinches." But he is not subservient to their wishes nor bound to follow anything but his own views of what is good.

Now I know, of course, that in the process of the wisest decision-making a full knowledge of the popular mind is an indispensable prerequisite. I make this bow to the pollsters to avoid getting irate letters from Gallupville, USA. But in American life, it seems to me, the balance has tipped too far toward a kind of decision-making which gives the public what it says it thinks it wants, and a reaction to this — even if it bedevils the work of the pollster — can only be a healthy sign.

'My life preserver floats better than your life preserver'

Our readers write

December 17, 1975

Dear Don:
I just had to take a moment to thank you for the kind words you wrote in your fine column "The Passing Glimpse" regarding my election as president of the Chamber of Commerce for 1976. I am hopeful I can live up to all the nice things you said about me in your article.

Don, you mentioned I was public-spirited. Yes I am. It is easy to be public-spirited when you live and work in a community such as Georgetown. There is no doubt in my mind this is the greatest place in which to live and raise a family in the world. I am aware this takes in a lot of territory but this is something I firmly believe. By virtue of my profession, which means daily contact and association with all segments of the community, I am firmly convinced that with the type of people residing here it will continue to be such a place in the future. The future looks great for Georgetown.

My pledge in the coming year will be to try and repay in whatever measure possible the many good things this community has given to me and my family since my return three and one-half years ago. It is a privilege to be able to live here.

Sincerely,
Bill Williams

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

By PATRICK CONWAY

AUSTIN — Phil Gramm, the little professor from down on the Brazos, may cause U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen some sleepless nights before the primary elections next spring.

Gramm is running anything but a "Mr. Nice Guy" campaign against Bentsen for the Democratic nomination for senator.

In fact, he calls the senator a liar, but he chooses to use the words: "doubletalk" and "outright deceit."

Gramm took dead aim at Bentsen's claim that he had an excellent attendance record in Washington.

"When I first saw that, I thought it was a misprint," the former Texas A&M professor said. "But when I saw it again and again I knew that Bentsen was simply trying to hoodwink the people and the press."

Gramm thumbed through the "Congressional Quarterly" and noted that Bentsen was absent in 1974 for more than one out of every four record votes in the Senate.

"I find it shocking that a man who ties for the ninth worst in attendance in the United States Senate can go around bragging about his attendance record," Gramm said in a formal statement.

He claimed 91 senators are doing a better job of showing up for record votes than is the state's junior senator.

Gramm's name is hardly a household word in Texas, and he needs to do some ear boxing to bring attention to his bid as a staunch conservative candidate for the Senate.

It looks like he is picking up political street fighting in a hurry.

Earlier he accused Bentsen of keeping his Democratic presidential bid alive just so he could collect $800,000 in matching political funds from the Federal Treasury in January.

Gramm described this as "the sorriest reason I have ever heard anyone give for running for the highest office in the land."

But, Gramm notes, the U. S. Supreme Court may strike down the new federal election law, and that would mean no matching funds. Bentsen, he said, will then "have no further excuse for traipsing around the country missing votes in the Senate."

The two Republican candidates for the nomination for senator are probably watching Gramm's attacks with glee. U. S. Rep. Alan Steelman of Dallas is the favorite to get the nomination over Louis Leman, an unknown political quantity from Crosby.

Steelman has been putting together a bag of Bentsenisms that he plans to use against the senator when necessary. Some of those items like Bentsen's "nationalized" voting record as a presidential candidate are already turning off some of the senator's conservative supporters in Texas.

Both Gramm and Steelman would like to grab that conservative support, and Bentsen made a recent move to appease his conservative critics when he voted against the common situs picketing bill that organized labor supported.

It was a calculated risk that will cost Bentsen any support he may have had coming from the building and trades unions across the land. Austin labor leader Gerald Brown noted that Texas labor officials had opened a lot of doors for Bentsen with organized workers in other states, but "I'm afraid this (the common situs vote) closed them."

PRODUCERS SHOULD CHECK TAX CHANGES

Farmers and ranchers should pay particular attention to tax changes for 1975, says an economist. One change involves investment credit, which was increased to 10 percent for 1975 and 1976. Several permanent changes have also been made regarding investment credit. Also individuals with an annual income between $4,000 and $8,000 are eligible for a refundable tax credit on all earned income. In addition, the standard deduction has been increased to 16 percent for 1975, and taxpayers can claim an additional $30 tax credit for each exemption. Changes have also been made in child care expense deductions and in the amount of income needed before filing a tax return.

CHRISTMAS POINSETTIAS NEED SPECIAL CARE

Poinsettias can provide attractive colors for your Christmas decor throughout the holiday season if cared for properly, points out a landscape horticulturist. Keep them in a sunny location away from sudden temperature changes caused by drafts, heat vents and opening doors. Proper watering is important because poinsettias have a high water requirement. Of course, overwatering should also be avoided as this will cause feeder roots to die and the plants will lose their foliage. Three weeks after receiving the plants and at three-week intervals, apply a liquid fertilizer which they color fades.

Good news (and bad) as year ends

As the old year fizzles out, an unusually large number of problems are bedeviling the country and the world.

There are even a few problems close by.

There is also good news!

THE NEW YEAR SHOULD be interesting as our best brains do their derndest to shore up the leaks and keep the old Ship of State headed toward safe harbors.

It looks, for instance, as if our taxes will be increased beginning next year. President Ford vetoed a bill he felt would be inflationary. Without the bill, however, temporary tax cuts meted out last year come to an end and the average working man will be taxed around $3 extra per week. Businessmen as well as wage-earners will also be hit harder.

Ford wanted a reduction in spending to accompany the tax reduction and Congress refused to bite that bullet. Democrats are crying that Ford was playing politics, Republicans say he was acting responsibly and claim the demos are building a national New York City with irresponsible deficit financing. So, what's new.

We think there is a good possibility that a tax reduction will still come out of the current squabble.

THE NATIONAL ECONOMY is ending the year with a rush upward. The third quarter GNP increased 13.4 per cent, said to be the highest gain for a three-month period in 25 years, but there are problems everywhere. Some local developers, the SUN has learned, are finding it more difficult to make payments on land and some are asking for extensions, or lower payments, as a result of a slowing down in home building.

The average Georgetown citizen is finding it harder to make ends meet because of higher taxes, increased utility rates and an ever-upward spiral of prices at the stores and the gasoline pump. An extra $3 per week income tax isn't going to make them love their President or Congressmen any more.

As Christmas week turns the corner local stores are busy with shoppers, a condition due to continue right up to Christmas Eve. Most of the buying is on a cash basis and the shoppers are purchasing good quality merchandise and wrapping the packages in expensive paper and ribbons. Television sets and other costly gifts are said to be moving well and there is an aura of happiness and good will prevailing over the entire community.

THE DRIVE FOR $350,000 to fund the birth of a fine hospital to serve the community is doing much better than expected with $150,000 reported in the till at mid-week. The experts, however, expect the second half of the drive to be much harder, as most large gifts are counted in that first $150 thousand.

It is note-worthy that $150 thousand is, in itself, the largest sum of money ever raised in Georgetown for a single project.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — In the executive suites of almost all the top defense contractors are retired admirals and generals who are on a first-name basis with the Pentagon's big brass.

What branch of the government spends the most money? The military. Who is an expert on Pentagon red tape? An admiral or a general. So make him a corporate vice president.

By our own count, more than 1,400 high-ranking military officers have left the armed forces to accept jobs with defense contractors in the last five years. Northrop Corporation, for example, has hired 53 former Defense Department employees since 1969.

Here are a few other typical examples:

— Boeing is the prime contractor for Minuteman missiles. It has hired at least four senior Pentagon officials who had jurisdiction over Minuteman missiles.

— Rockwell International produces B-1 bombers for the Air Force. One of the company's new executives is Harry Gaynor, who used to be chief of an Air Force unit dealing with B-1 bombers. Two other Rockwell executives, Thomas McGuire and Robert Mitchell, came out of the Air Force Contract Management Division.

— LTV operates one of the Air Force's major missile test ranges. The company now has on the payroll McLean Elliott who, as an Air Force general, has been in charge of budget planning for test ranges.

The fine art of gaining contracts, unfortunately, depends as much on political influence as professional competence. Sometimes, political influence is bought for cash under the table.

In the past, for example, we have reported how the Lockheed Corporation passed out $200 million to people in high places around the world. Now we've learned where most of the money went.

Payments were made to the air force chief in Colombia, the minister of defense in Italy and a high air force official in Mexico. Of course, Lockheed has been heavily subsidized by the American taxpayers.

So at least indirectly, our tax money has been used to pay off foreign officials to encourage them to buy Lockheed airplanes.

Political Football: President Ford is quietly preparing for the New Hampshire presidential primary next February. Like the football lineman he once was, he plans to charge, head-on, into his rival Ronald Reagan.

The political pundits are predicting Reagan will beat the President in New Hampshire. But Ford has quietly put together a formidable organization, which will soon start to blitz New Hampshire voters with letters, telephone calls and door-to-door solicitation.

The President believes he can defeat Reagan in two of the three states in which Reagan is making his strongest, early effort — New Hampshire and North Carolina. The other state, Florida, will be a tougher nut to crack.

Soused Soldiers: The Pentagon has asked Congress for $30 million next year to combat alcoholism in the armed services.

Yet the military brass encourage drinking by selling booze at cut-rate prices and holding frequent drinking parties. Liquor sales are used to subsidize recreational activities, military shops and even libraries.

It's no wonder, then, that there are twice as many alcoholics in uniform, percentage-wise, as in multi. In Europe, for example, the average military family drinks nearly three times more than their civilian counterparts in the United States.

"Buy American": President Ford has called upon us to buy products made in America. This is necessary, he said, to maintain our trade balance.

Some of his own associates, however, have paid no attention. Secretary of the Treasury William Simon, for example, drives a silver Mercedes. Transportation Secretary William Coleman motors around in a blue one.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld drives a Volvo, and Housing Secretary Carla Hills prefers a cream-colored Audi.

Christmas Story: The newspapers have been full of unfavorable stories about the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. We were the first to expose Hoover's excesses in a series of

A Case Against Gloom

BY HOWARD FLIEGER

Want to thaw the chill of late winter with some comforting reading about this country and its 213 million people?

You might try a book by Ben J. Wattenberg — The Real America (published by Doubleday) — which was completed late last year and seems even more timely now.

In no sense is Mr. Wattenberg a "cockeyed optimist." He is a serious social and economic analyst who has plunged into a sea of statistics — the U.S. Census, public-opinion polls, market, industry and academic surveys and such. He comes up laughing at the doomsayers. To quote his conclusion:

"The dominant rhetoric of our time is a rhetoric of failure, guilt and crisis.

"The evidence of the data is the evidence of progress, growth and success."

What's "progress"? Mr. Wattenberg defines the word as meaning "a condition that is better by far than what it replaces after accounting for any side effects."

For a sampling of his examples:

"Real family income, after inflation, has doubled in a generation."

Fringe benefits — job equities that don't show up in pay envelopes — advanced from 23.4 billion dollars in 1960 to 79.7 billion in 1972, and they're still growing.

By official definition, a fifth of all Americans were living in poverty in 1959. Now the total is half that.

Between 1960 and 1970 people on the bottom rung gained .6 percent in their income, while those on the top rung lost 2.2 percent. But don't feel sorry for the well-to-do. In 1952 there were 202,000 households with incomes of $25,000 or more. Twenty years later there were 4,225,000.

Mr. Wattenberg doesn't confine progress to material gains. His data show:

College enrollment in 1960 was more than 3.5 million. By 1973

it had reached 8.6 million, and is estimated to exceed 10 million by 1980. Furthermore, about 60 percent of today's college students come from families in which the head of the household never completed one year of college. Among blacks, the figure goes up to 80 percent.

The number of women in the professions has gone up sharply, and there has been a "great increase" in the percentage of women in the total labor force.

Americans now start working later, put in fewer hours and retire earlier.

Mr. Wattenberg's analyses are sure to be controversial. For one thing, he sideswipes the various "libs" — women's, black's, consumer's — because, he suggests, they either don't recognize their gains or they deliberately fuzz them to keep causes going.

The author's own conclusion is that while the hand-wringers have been deploring the sad state of America, we have become "the first Massive Majority Middle Class society in history" — something of a marvel.

What is this new middle class doing with its hard-earned money? It's not being frittered away, as you might think. Figures in the book show the faster rises in family spending are on education, health, recreation and housing. Among the slower risers are cosmetics, alcohol, jewelry. Says Mr. Wattenberg: "The point is that given a vast increase in discretionary income over the last decade, the broad spending trends have been commonsensical and worthwhile."

The hero of this fascinating book: the American people — "smarter, wiser, calmer, shrewder, tougher and more forgiving than their critics of the left and of the right."

Mr. Wattenberg, digesting all the data of two decades, sketches his hero as resourceful, adaptable, independent — and a chronic complainer. His guess for the future: Americans will continue to complain about their lot — and go right on progressing.

New seed drill purchased for conservation district

A new grass seed drill will soon be available to farmers and ranchers in the Little River-San Gabriel Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD).

District Conservationist Lyle McAndrew said the district has purchased a $2100 Brillion seeder.

It will be located in Florence on the property of B. T. Preslar, SWCD custodian of equipment.

THE DRILL is designed to plant small grass seeds such as Kleingrass and wintergreen Harding grass. It will be available to farmers and ranchers on a rental basis.

McAndrew said he expects rental cost for the seeder will be about $1.50 per acre. To rent the drill, contact Preslar.

McAndrew said the district has also owned a Nesbitt seed drill for several years, which has done an excellent job of seeding small grasses.

According to the conservationist, hundreds of acres of Kleingrass were planted in both the Taylor and Little River-San Gabriel SWCDs last year.

Mrs. James Barksdale of Georgetown attended a recent volunteer coordinators seminar in the Austin offices of the First Lady's Volunteer Program. Mrs. Barksdale is an area volunteer chairman for Williamson County. The purpose of the day long seminar was to show the area coordinators how to work effectively with community groups in volunteer efforts.

Williamson County commuters warned

The Sunday SUN
Section 1, Page 5

Georgetown, TX
Sunday, December 21

Icy weather could close IH 35 in Austin

Georgetown and Williamson County commuters to Austin should be prepared this winter for the possibility that Interstate Highway 35 might occasionally be closed along its entire course through the central part of the city.

when driving conditions become icy and hazardous, motorists may be restricted to lower lanes of the interstate and its frontage roads, or possibly to the frontage roads only.

Department spokesmen said their District 14 office, in cooperation with the Austin Police Department, will first close entrance ramps to the overhead sections of the highway when conditions become dangerous.

IN THAT EVENT, barricades will be placed at access points on both the north and south ends of the overhead. Signs indicating icy road conditions will also be placed along the interstate prior to where the overhead section begins, to alert motorists that it has been closed.

Drivers would then be restricted to the lower lanes. If conditions worsened, restrictions might also apply to the lower lanes.

Southbound motorists might not be allowed onto the interstate from its intersection with U.S. 183 all the way to entrance ramp at 15th St.

Northbound drivers might have access to the express from First Street to past Air Boulevard.

IF NECESSARY, all entrance ramps between those points could be closed, and traffic would have to continue on and south on the frontage road.

Traffic lights at intersections along the frontage roads would be adjusted, and the Austin Police Department would direct traffic at the intersections.

The Highway Department advised commuters from Williamson County to consider these alternative routes if traffic is closed.

ON THE EAST SIDE of take the U.S. 81 exit or the 1325 exit to Lamar Boulevard.

On the west side of the highway, take U.S. 183 to Bluest Boulevard.

The department also planned why traffic might be restricted to the lower lanes throughout the central city.

First, ice could make bridges in several locations hazardous. Due to construction on lower lanes in the 26th Street area, a bottleneck could develop for both north and southbound travelers.

THE ELEVATED ROADWAY will freeze more quickly than the lower levels, and will be slower to thaw.

If accidents occurred on the interstate because of ice, traffic congestion probably could be alleviated more easily on the lower lanes and frontage roads than on the overhead.

Since there is only one entrance and one exit to the overhead, wrecks and Austin police would have difficulty reaching an accident scene because of ice and traffic bottlenecks.

Department spokesmen pointed out that there is an absolute plan for controlling traffic on the interstate in icy weather, but motorists should use extreme caution and be alert to signs and barricades indicating traffic movement, as well as police directing traffic.

Peace Lutheran Church of Leander service will now be conducted in their new building located on highway 620, 1.1 miles west of 183, starting with Christmas eve services.

Services on December 24 will begin at 6:30 p. m. Although there will be no heat or electricity, everyone is invited. Pastor of Peace Lutheran Stephen D. Quill, informed the congregation "to prepare for this service, bring flashlights, warm clothes and an open mind." He also stated "This service will be most memorable."

Regular church services are every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. for Sunday School. The church formerly met at Pond Springs Elementary School.

What's Happening?

The annual work day for the Pan American Student Forum (better known as the Spanish Club at Georgetown High School), consisted of members performing chores of clearing old pieces of lumber laying about the log cabin being restored on Austin Avenue. Through the encouragement of Mrs. Clara Scarbrough and Mrs. Ray McCoy, sponsor of PASF, the members plan to continue work on the cabin after Christmas.

Working members were Joe Tays, president, Hilda Guevara, treasurer, Elizabeth Vasquez, reporter, Donna Beggs, Rita Scott and Jeannie Clifford.

Mrs. Della Pope celebrated her 96th birthday on December

10 with a party hosted by her children.

Birthday cake, coffee and tea were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pope and grandson, Greg Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Pope, Floyd Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Whitley, Mrs. Betty Ball and children, Willie Gay, James David, Larry Todd and Amy Ball, Mrs. Rutley Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Allmon, Mrs. Felma Headrick and Mrs. Archie Davis.

Brenda Low hosted the December meeting of Xi Xi Nu. Mrs. Adrienne Dedear and Mrs. Bill Shelby presented a dual program, "Women Who Have Made A Difference" and "Viva La Difference."

Mrs. Leland Preiss presided at the business session and welcomed Ms. Nancy Webb as a new member. The group finalized plans for the annual

Entomology Notes

by ROBERT E. GLOTT, JR.,
County Extension Entomologist
CONTROL GREENBUGS ON SMALL GRAINS—Small grain producers need to be on the lookout for rapidly growing greenbug populations in their fields, says Bob Glott, county entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

During the past week, greenbug numbers increased in many of the small grain fields in Williamson and Milam Counties. Greenbug counts ranged from 2 to 175 greenbugs per linear foot of row. In all but one instance, greenbug levels had not reached damaging proportions. If the daytime temperatures remain warm and we do not get some moisture in these small grains, greenbug populations can be expected to increase very rapidly.

The bugs, which are about 1/16th-inch long and light green with a dark green stripe down their back, inject a toxin into plants while feeding on them. This causes the plant to turn yellow and eventually die. Any type of stress such as lack of moisture will increase the damage done by greenbugs.

"In some cases," says Bob Glott, "greenbugs have become resistant to insecticides. Insecticide control failure may be due to application, temperature or coverage problems."

Bob Glott advised checking fields at regular intervals during the growing season and at least once a week if the greenbug population is increasing.

Before using an insecticide, a producer should consider such things as plant vigor, moisture conditions, stage of growth and the presence or absence of parasites and predators.

Effective insecticide controls of greenbugs on small grains are methyl parathion, parathion, malathion, disulfoton (Di-Syston) and dimethoate. With parathion and methyl parathion, fields should not be grazed for 15 days after use. Malathion is less toxic and grazing can commence after seven days. Dimethoate should be used for wheat only and grazing can start after 14 days. Disulfoton should not be used on small grain fields which are grazed with livestock.

Since greenbug populations can increase rapidly, regular field checks are the key to heading off severe damage, points out Bob Glott.

THE WINTER TICK AND THE BLACK LEGGED TICK have been found on cattle in Williamson County in large numbers. The winter tick is a one-host tick. It attaches to a host as the larva or "seed tick" and remains on the same host to molt from the immature stages to the adult stage. The adult female leaves the host after engorgement and fertilization to deposit eggs.

As the common name implies, this tick is usually found on animals during the winter. In most of their Texas ranges, the larva become active during the fall or the first cool weather and remain active during the winter and spring. The adult population of winter ticks normally reaches its peak during the latter part of November or December. In January the population begins to dwindle, and by February and March, only a few adults are found on animals. Each female usually deposits 3,000 to 4,000 eggs that require three to six weeks for hatching.

Voter bill court order raises lots of questions

Dilemma.

Since a court order making re-registration optional for voters unless they have changed addresses or voting boxes took the teeth out of Senate Bill 300, Texas tax assessor-collectors are faced with a dilemma.

They can mail the already-prepared applications which voters are not required to return. Or they can wait to ask for new information required by the bill when new voter registration certificates are mailed out — whenever that might be.

The court order requiring enclosure of a disclaimer to the section in registration applications, stating that nonresponse would result in deletion from voter lists, came too late for many tax assessors to comply with the December 31 mailing deadline required by the bill.

IN RESPONSE to many complaints concerning the deadline from Texas Assessors, Secretary of State Mark White has notified them that "if you determine that the mailing of application forms with the enclosures required by the court order is impossible to accomplish within the time limits of S.B. 300, or if the mailing of such application forms will render it impossible for you to mail voter registration certificates within the time limit of S.B. 300, then you may dispense with such mailing.

"However," the notification warns, "S.B. 300 requires certain new voter registration information be kept by your office and forwarded to the Secretary of State. If your office does not have this information in your current voter registration files, then you should include a request for any required information you do not have at the time you mail the voter registration certificates."

CHANGES from the previous registration bill, Senate Bill 51, deal mostly with more precise information regarding applications.

Married women are required to give their first and maiden names, rather than responding with their husband's name prefixed by "Mrs."

While birthdates had been required only of persons under 21 years of age, now all voters will need to furnish this information.

A street address, or description of the exact location of residents (i.e., "three miles east of Georgetown on County Road 300"), is required in addition to any mailing address differing from the residence address.

CONCERNED with the cost of postage for nearly 15,000 re-registration applications, Williamson County Tax Assessor - Collector William Buck has decided to hold the applications, which his office readied for mailing weeks ago, for an as-yet undetermined time, waiting for further word from the office of the Secretary of State.

"We're lucky — we've only spent a little bit so far," Buck said, referring to the cost of printing envelopes for the mailing. Although the re-registration mailings were required by State law, county taxes will be used to fund the procedure.

The Williamson County expenditure, under $300, does fall far below the $20,000 spent by Travis County to mail out only some of its application forms. The tax assessor-collector there has now also decided to wait for more information from White's office before spending any more county money on postage, Buck reports.

Burnet County, Buck says, is following the same logic of wait and see.

But Williamson County won't wait until postage goes up to mail the applications, Buck is quick to assure—should it be deemed necessary to mail them at all.

WHATEVER officials in Texas and in Williamson County decide, one question the dilemma raises has a sure answer.

No one who is eligible to vote and who desires to do so will be barred from voting in the next election, the May 1 primaries, even if the dilemma is not wholly resolved by May and voters have to use their old registration cards.

Q. I recently installed a window air conditioner in an apartment I own and rent out. Can I deduct the cost?
A. The installation of the air conditioner is a capital expenditure since it represents an investment in property that has a useful life of more than one year. You can deduct depreciation calculated over the useful life of the air conditioner.

Granger dam bids opened

J. D. Abrams, Inc. of El Paso submitted the apparent low bid this week for accessory construction on the Granger Dam at Laneport.

The company offered to complete the work in 1200 calendar days for $18,682,343. Abrams bid was one of nine which ranged up to $27,642,518. Bids were opened at the Fort Worth District offices of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Col. Joe H. Sheard, Fort Worth District Engineer, said the work includes excavation of a spillway, and construction of an earthen embankment, concrete slab, stilling basin, retaining walls, service bridge with steel superstructure, concrete deck and piers, and paved access roads.

THE CORPS ALSO recently opened bids for the same work at the North Fork Lake Dam. Apparent low bidder for that contract was the Dahlstrom Corp. of Dallas at $11,326,122.10.

No bids have been awarded, but Procurement Chief J. W. Tittsworth said bids might be accepted in December.

According to Ronald Zunker, resident engineer for the two projects, work at the North Fork Dam could begin by the middle of January and construction on the Granger Dam might begin at about the same time. Construction of the two projects is expected to be completed approximately three and a half years after it begins.

THE NORTH FORK DAM will be located about 3.5 miles west of Georgetown, with the Granger structure to be built about seven miles east of Granger.

Both dams are part of a flood-control project designed to control flooding on the San Gabriel River. The program was established by the Flood Control Acts of 1954 and 1962.

BACKSTAGE — Performing "How Come Christmas?" at the Christmas program at First Baptist Church Wednesday night were members of the Good News Puppet Company. Performers and their puppets. Left to right are Karen King with Christine, Beth Morse with Willie and Lisa Ramsey with Delia. The Puppet Company staged two different performances Wednesday night.

AND THIS GIFT GOES TO — Santa Claus, assisted by Joyce Perry at the Mary Bailey Child Development Center, passes out gifts to the children and staff members as John Alan Medrano and Stevie Berrera wait their turn. Santa's generosity was apparent as the floor was covered with gift wrappings in a short time. Refreshments were served afterwards. Rosetta Rose is the director of the center.

PRESENTATION OF MINERALS — Sam Goldenberg of the Williamson County Gem and Mineral Society made a presentation of minerals to the earth science classes at the Georgetown Junior High School Monday afternoon. The rarest specimen in the collection was Trinitite, a manmade mineral created by the fusion of sand during the explosion of the first atomic bomb in New Mexico in 1943. Earth science teachers are Larry Loudamy and Ruby Buie. Students viewing the specimen are Trish Faughnan, Carole Grohman and Nancy Rothhammer. Mineral samples were collected in Mexico, Brazil and all over the United States.

Round Rock school district gets regional accreditation

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, through its Commission on Secondary Schools and Commission on Elementary Schools, has awarded accreditation to the Round Rock Independent School District, grades K-12. The announcement was made by Commission officials during the Southern Association's 80th Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Ga., December 7-10.

Approximately 200 of the 1100 districts of Texas have regional accreditation status for all grades K-12. Other Central Texas Schools to share this distinction with Round Rock are Seguin, New Braunfels and Eanes.

This accreditation is based on an evaluation of the school to determine if it meets not only the needs of the students and community but also the standards of quality of the Commission. The evaluation process includes self-study by the school and review by a visiting committee of professional educators representing the Association's member secondary schools.

Founded in 1895, the Southern Association is a voluntary, nongovernmental agency composed of nearly 10,000 colleges and universities, occupational institutions, and secondary and elementary schools. It is one of six regional accrediting associations in the United States and encompasses 11 southern states from Virginia to Texas.

The purpose of regional accreditation is to improve the quality of education. Each member school must carry on a continuing program of improvement and, to maintain its accreditation, must submit annual reports and undergo periodic reevaluation. Noel Grisham, Superintendent of Round Rock Schools, said major credit for this achievement goes to Mrs. Rowena Stone, Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction, and to the principals and teachers, and to the earlier commitment of the Board of Trustees.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

The school is undeniably a necessary part of every community and surely everyone realizes that to operate a school efficiently and adequately is going to be expensive. The operation and the administration of the school is the responsibility of people who have been duly elected and hired for this specific purpose, but they must have the confidence and support of the citizenry. It is illogical to think that these people are going to spend more money than the needs require, or for anything that is not necessary. After all, these people are taxpayers, and they too are sharing the expense.

School Board Members put in many hours with no pay except for the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing something worthwhile; quite often the job they are doing is completely thankless. Let's all consider the magnitude of the service that these people are rendering, and then at least appreciate what they are doing for all of us.

Our school, our School Board, our Faculty and Administration are things that we can point to with pride, and we can also be proud that our community has never failed to approve any bond issue!

The Community Basketball League, a program for all boys and girls in grades 3 through 6, lest you have not heard, will be organized at a special meeting in the Liberty Hill School Gym on January 10, 1976. Anyone who desires any additional information concerning this program is urged to contact Coach Daryl Moffitt. This is a very good thing for our community—LET'S ALL SUPPORT IT!

Lions recommend $1,500 donation

Georgetown Noon Lions Club directors, meeting Wednesday, recommended that club members be presented a recommendation to give $1500 to the Georgetown Area Hospital Development Fund, $1,000 to be delivered after the club votes on the measure January 14 and $500 to be given after next year's pancake supper, the organization's main fund-raising event.

Claude Hays, president, said the club had the funds available and that the project would be in keeping with the service goals of Lionism.

The Liberty Hill High School Girls competed with the Georgetown Freshmen Team in a roundball contest at Liberty Hill last Tuesday evening. At the end of regulation play the score was tied at 38 to 38, and after two overtime periods the hometown team owned the scoreboard — that final score was 43 to 39!

Diane Williams led the scoring for the hometowners with an impressive 26 points. Kellie Weems tallied 10 points, and Debby Bohanan scored 7 points. Cynthia Williamson was quite outstanding in her defensive play. This was obviously a hard-fought game, and we salute The Pantherettes for persisting to come out victorious!

Last Tuesday evening the Liberty Hill High School Boys' Varsity Panthers found their shooting eye, and they hit the hoop on 42% of their shots from the field as they rolled over the Westwood Team by 79 to 56.

Donnie Johnson was the leading scorer with his 29 points, Eric Weems made 16 points, Robert Stephens scored 11 points, Cody Carothers made 9 points, Travis Gilmore dumped in 8 points, Roy Montemayor made 4 points, and Mark Walker rounded out the scoring with his 2 points.

The Panthers will not play again until January 2, 1976, when they will travel to Milano for a pre-district tune-up game. The district play will start on January 6, 1976, when Johnson City comes to Liberty Hill to compete with our Panthers.

Be sure that you take every opportunity to attend the games, and "root, root, root for the home team!"

The Liberty Hill Garden Club held their Christmas Party on December 17, when they met in Hurricane Hall at Durham Park. Thirty members were present and they exchanged gifts before revealing their "Secret Pals."

The next meeting of The Liberty Hill Garden Club will be held on the second Wednesday of 1976, January 14, in their usual meeting place, the Fellowship Hall of The Rock Church of Christ.

The ladies of The First Baptist Church of Liberty Hill and the ladies of The Rock Church of Christ of Liberty Hill took Christmas remembrances to their friends in Sweetbriar Nursing Home in Georgetown, as well as several others in the area. They are to be commended for their thoughtfulness!

At this time of year when many of us are more mindful of the good things that we have and the great life that we in America are privileged to have, I am reminded of the little boy who told Father Flannigan, "He ain't heavy, Father, he's my brother!" There was also a fellow who was disgruntled because he had no shoes until he saw a man who had no feet!

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

DAR honors three Good Citizens

Three are high school seniors, Randall Vickers of Georgetown, Miss Kim LeMaster of Round Rock and Miss Lisa Williams of Florence, were special guests at the December 13 meeting of the Daniel Coleman Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution.

Each year, with the cooperation of the principals of the Florence, Georgetown and Round Rock high schools, the Daniel Coleman Chapter awards three high school seniors the DAR Good Citizen Certificates and Pins.

Mrs. C. M. Kauffman, chairman of the Good Citizen Committee, presented certificates and pins to the DAR Good Citizens, Randall Vickers, Kim LeMaster and Lisa Williams. The Daniel Coleman Chapter DAR is proud of these young people, their efforts and their accomplishments in their schools, homes, churches and communities.

Competition for these awards, previously restricted to senior girls, has this year been extended to include senior boys. These young people were elected by their respective schools as having the qualities of leadership, dependability, service and patriotism to an outstanding degree.

In January the names and papers of each will be entered as the Daniel Coleman Chapter DAR nominees for the State Society DAR Good Citizen Award.

The aim of the DAR Good Citizens Committee, which sponsors the awards given by

RANDALL VICKERS
DAR Good Citizen

Daniel Coleman Chapter is to stress the qualities of good citizenship in high schools and to develop those high ideals which form the basis of good citizenship. This project reaches many young people throughout the United States who are leaders among their peers and America's hope for the future. It is a program designed to encourage an appreciation of the privileges and responsibilities of being good citizens.

The qualifications by which these young people have been selected as Good Citizens are: —Dependability — which includes truthfulness, reliability, loyalty and punctuality.

—Service — cooperation, courtesy, consideration of others and performance of duty.

—Leadership — personality, self-control, responsibility, and the ability to guide or direct.

—Patriotism — unselfish interest in family, school, church, community and nation. Randall Vickers, son of Mrs. Corinne Vickers of Georgetown, has been a district band winner for three years, chosen student of the month by the National Honor Society, treasurer of the Student Council, vice-president of the high school band, treasurer of the San Gabriel Chapter of the Junior Historians, sports editor of the high school annual staff and coordinator of student activities for special events. He has also tutored sixth grade band members. He is active in the Georgetown Church of Christ.

In addition to the above, he has held a part-time job for several years. Randall is a cheerful worker in serving his family, assuming many responsibilities for the welfare of family members.

KIM LEMASTER
DAR Good Citizen

Randall plans to attend either Texas A&M University or Texas Tech University, studying either engineering or computer technology. His hobbies are music, swimming and hunting.

Kim LeMaster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doris S. LeMaster of Round Rock, was a 1975 citizen to Bluebonnet Girls State, where she was the Federalist Candidate for Railroad Commissioner. She has also served as a member of the Student Council for four years, National Honor Society for three years, the Round Rock High School drill teams for two years, member of the 1975 Homecoming Court and of Junior Achievement of Austin. Kim is also a cheerleader.

She has been actively involved in the choir and Vacation Bible School of the Highland Park Baptist Church in Austin, including mission work in Mexico with a student union group. She has served willingly in community activities. She utilizes her hobbies of cooking and sewing, by cooking and sewing for her family and home.

Kim plans to attend Baylor University next year, possibly studying government and politics.

Lisa Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal D. Williams of Florence, has been elected class favorite, been voted "most attractive" for three years, won best actress at District Interscholastic League, been awarded the Dramatics Award a mobile home fire which claimed the lives of two other children, both three years old, north of Florence Tuesday night.

The blaze was thought to have begun in the kitchen area of the Terry L. Brown home. The sleeping children, ranging from three to ten years old, were alone at the time of the fire.

A RECORD TURNOUT of 902 Leander voters emphatically said "no" Saturday to their school board's request for $1.176 million to repair and add to school facilities.

Residents voted 689-213 against the district's bond proposal, which failed to carry any of five voting boxes.

THIRTY LOCAL MERCHANTS are participating in a free drawing to decide the winner of a Zenith AM-FM stereo and record player and an RCA color television Christmas Eve, Gary Seaman, manager of KGTN announced. He estimated the value of the prize, on display in the city offices, at approximately $600.

CHANGES in the architect's plans for the classroom addition at Westside Intermediate School, a new tax exemption law and a recent audit were the main subjects of discussion on the agenda by Georgetown school trustees Monday night.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY of the founding of the local Daniel Coleman Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held Saturday in the old Emerson homestead, now the family home of Mrs. Camilla Durrenberger, hostess for the occasion.

The first meeting of the Daniel Coleman Chapter DAR was held in Georgetown on December 7, 1925.

★ Commissioners

$3,765 for heating and air conditioning for the building was accepted December 8. Other improvements are under way.

The court promised ASCS could move into the offices early in the new year.

SPENDING $25 yearly to subscribe to the magazine "Texas Register" will be discussed. A new publication of the Secretary of State's office, "Texas Register" will include rules of state agencies, executive orders of the Attorney General, notices of open meetings and other matters relating to routine workings of state government. It is advertised as "a clear and current account of what the administrative arm of state government is doing."

The $25 will cover 100 issues, to be received Tuesdays and Fridays beginning in January. Commissioners will study two retirement plans for county employees. The plans were submitted by the Texas County and District Retirement System.

The court will also consider certification of Judge Kirby Vance concerning the annual appointment of a county auditor, his first assistant and assistant auditor.

Salary adjustments for the court reporter and the county probation officer will be considered, as will the hiring of an assistant probation officer, Perry Cox.

Additionally, the court will consider releasing a letter of credit on Brushy Bend Park and will hold preliminary hearings on Town and Country Village Addition, Jenks Branch Subdivision and The Woodland Village, and a final hearing on Lake Creek Village at Anderson Mill.

home, Wayne Gattis still kept traces of a sense of humor.

"I bet if that freezer is still left, we've got some barbecued beef inside," he told his father-in-law.

KAY GATTIS, visibly shaken, still retained enough composure to tell her mother, "Well, your Christmas present was in there too, you might as well know now what is was."

The Gattis's and their son Kenneth told firemen to pull down what was left of the walls.

"It was a big jar," said Babe Raum, "and we've got a heck of a job left to do to clean up and see if there is still a foundation there."

As of Friday, cause of the fire remained undetermined.

"God only knows what started it," said Raum.

SERVICES WERE SET for Saturday in Florence for two three-year-old boys who died in a mobile home fire north of the city Tuesday night.

A spokesman for the Young Funeral Home said memorial services would begin at 3 p.m. Saturday for Joshua Brown and Jeffery Lynn Green. Services will be held at the First Baptist Church in Florence.

Winifred Boggs will deliver a eulogy at the services.

The youngsters died Tuesday when the mobile home in which they slept three miles northeast of Florence on county road 228 burned.

TEN-YEAR-OLD JEFFERY BROWN saved three other children and himself from that fire, and attempted to save the three-year-olds but was blocked by flames.

The elder Brown youngster managed to get Jonathon Brown, nine, Jason Brown, five, and Lonna Green, five, out of the burning trailer and drove them in a car to the home of Harold Ramm half a mile away.

Ramm and members of the Florence Volunteer Fire Department were on the scene within minutes, but too late to save the youngsters.

Cause of that fire was also undetermined.

Joshua Brown is survived by his father, S/ Sgt. E-6 Terry Lee Brown; his mother, Gerita Brown; and three brothers, Jeffery, Jonathan, and Jason.

Jeffery Lynn Green, Jr. is survived by his father, S/ Sgt. E-6 Jeffery Lynn Green, Sr.; his mother, Charlotte Green; and one sister, Lonna Green.

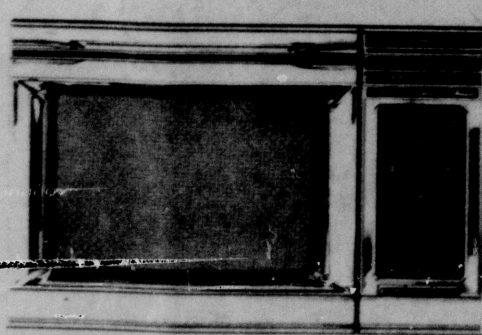

Burial for Joshua Brown will be at Memorial Garden in Medford, Oregon.

Burial for Jeffery Green Jr. will be at Lewis and Clark Memorial Cemetery in Lewiston, Idaho.

Radarrange
MICROWAVE OVEN

FOR CHRISTMAS!

Makes microwave cooking simple as 1-2-3!

The Amana Touchmatic Radarrange Microwave Oven makes it possible to get food from the freezer to the table, sizzling hot, with one setting at the beginning. It's as easy as 1-2-3!

You can set it to defrost and slow cook — or defrost and cook — in combination. Put in a frozen roast. Touch the numbers for defrosting time and cooking time — and the solid state "computer" takes over. It will defrost the roast — then automatically wait for the temperature to even — and cook the roast. It's all automatic. Cooks everything with split second accuracy and tells you dinner's ready with a "beep."

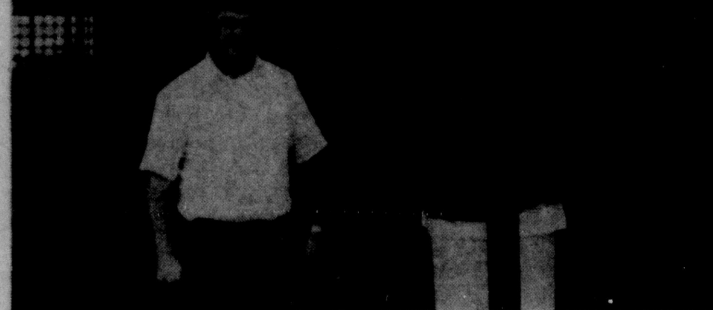

There's a digital clock on the control panel that displays the time of day in big, bright numbers. When you're cooking, this is a split second timer that displays the remaining cooking time. Then when cooking's done — it remembers, and displays the time of day again automatically.

Come in for a demonstration. You've got to see the Amana Touchmatic Radarrange oven in action to really understand how incredibly versatile microwave cooking can be.

Swofford files for sheriff

Dale Swofford, former deputy sheriff for Williamson County, filed Friday morning to run for the office of sheriff in the May 1 primary.

Swofford resigned his post as deputy December 11.

At the time, Swofford said, "I just needed to get out from under some pressure I was under to make a decision I need to make."

In a press release, he said he had resigned "to consider the requests of my friends to run for the office of sheriff."

SWOFFORD proposes a Juvenile Detention Center for Williamson County, stating both his concern for area youth and his feeling that "the confines of any penal institution is no place for juvenile offenders."

The ex-deputy has spent over seven years in law enforcement, is a certified Texas Peace Officer, a graduate of Central Texas College Law Enforcement Academy and a former deputy for Travis County. He has attended Southwest Texas State University courses in investigation, arrest, searches and seizures, and legal aspects, and is trained in penal and correctional institution procedures.

Incumbent Sheriff August Bosshard had previously filed for re-election in the May primary.

the Star

CHRISTMAS tree ornaments are made to resemble snow, unusual patterns of ice, and frost; however, the most beautiful ornament and symbol is the star for the top of the tree. This is to remind us of that wonderful day when the child Jesus was born in a manger and the star shown the way "for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him." Let the star on the tree remind you to attend church and worship him too.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

PRETTY POOR CHRISTMAS PRESENT — Kay Gattis (left foreground) watches helplessly Wednesday afternoon as fire consumes the remains of the $25,000 home she and husband Wayne built six years ago. The house was a total loss.

Second in two days

Fire guts home east of Georgetown

The second major Williamson County fire in just two days swept through a home four miles east of Georgetown Wednesday afternoon, destroying the structure completely.

Wayne Gattis, an IBM employee, said he and his wife Kay built the three-bedroom house six years ago at a cost of about $25,000.

Both were away when the fire was reported to the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Department about 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Gattis' father, Albert "Babe" Raum of Route 4, said he saw the fire and thought it was a grass fire out of control beyond the house.

UPON REACHING the home however, he found the flames were coming from the attic of the house. Climbing upon a support in the double garage, he said, he poked his head into the attic.

"There was fire all around me up there," Raum recalled. "I grabbed a hose and tried sprinkling water around, but it didn't do any good."

Raum drove to a neighbor's house, where he called out, "Kay's house is on fire" and asked the neighbor to call the fire department.

Georgetown volunteers soon arrived with equipment and men, and volunteers also came from Jarrell, Round Rock, and Hutto. Jarrell sent a booster truck and Round Rock sent a rural fire vehicle similar to the one used by Georgetown.

"THIRTY OR FORTY MINUTES earlier we might have been able to save it," said Raum, "but it was just too far gone when we got back. The firemen did all they could, but it was just too late."

Besides their home, the Gattis family lost all their furniture, clothes, and other possessions.

"We managed to get the boat and a motorcycle and a lawn mower out of the garage before it burned down, but that was about all," said Kay Gattis.

Starting at a blackened chimney rising starkly above the ruined walls, the only remains of the

Services mark Christmas

By Gayle Blake

Christmas is the celebration of the birth of Jesus and is first and foremost a holy day, a time of rejoicing over the good news that God sent his Son as the Saviour of mankind.

Too often the real meaning of Christmas is lost in the hustle and bustle of Christmas preparation such as buying and selling gifts and entertaining.

The churches of Georgetown have many services which can fulfill the primary purpose of Christmas, which is the reaffirming of the angels' song, "Glory to God in the Highest, and on earth, peace, goodwill toward men."

Grace Episcopal Church will present a solemn Christmas Liturgy at 11 p. m. Christmas Eve and again at 10 a. m. Christmas Day. Communion will be celebrated at midnight.

The Evangelical Free Church Christmas Cantata will be presented at 7 p. m. Sunday, December 21. A choir presentation will be entitled "Love Transcending" and the Sunday School program is "The Best Gift."

At St. Helen's Catholic Church Midnight Mass will be held Christmas Eve with Christmas music beginning at 11:30 p. m. by the Girls' Choir. Christmas Day Masses will be said at 8, 9:30 and 11 a. m.

Christmas Eve Mass will be at 8 p. m. at Santa Rosa Catholic Church in Andice.

Christmas confession schedule will be 3:30 to 5 p. m. Saturday, 4 to 5 p. m. and 7:30 to 9 p. m. Monday and Tuesday; and 10:30 a. m. to noon and 3:30 to 5 p. m. Wednesday.

First United Methodist Church will have a Christmas Eve Communion Service, with worship at 7 p. m. and communion served continuously from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m.

There will be a Christmas Tableau in the chancel by the youth of the church and readings by the Almquist family, Marsha Russell and James Raper.

First Assembly of God will present their annual Christmas program at 7 p. m. Sunday, December 21, entitled "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

First Presbyterian Church will hold their annual Christmas candlelight service at 6:30 p. m. Sunday, December 21.

There will be a Christmas party for Sunday School children at 6 p. m. Christmas Eve.

St. John's Methodist Church will have their main Christmas service at 5:30 Christmas morning.

Called Jul Otta Service, worship leaders will be junior and senior high students in conjunction with the church sponsored Boy Scout Troop.

The senior high youth will present a live manger scene in front of the church Tuesday and Wednesday nights, from 7 to 9 p. m.

Hospital gifts use explained

Residents of western Williamson County will ask many questions within the next two months about the fund drive for a new Georgetown Area Hospital, and they'll probably include this one:

WHAT WILL HAPPEN to gifts of cash and pledges until they are needed to build the new hospital?

Ken Poteete, Georgetown Hospital administrator, said Friday, "The money will be deposited in a special account at a bank."

"After we secure a $2.7 million loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), we will periodically draw from the account our share of pro-rata payments to construction contractors. After payment, the rest of the money will remain in interest-bearing securities, probably certificates of deposit, until time for the next payment."

"The interest the money earns at whatever the current rate is will go toward reducing the amount of the FmHA debt."

POTEETE ALSO REPORTED that employees of the Georgetown Hospital and Clinic have contributed over $10,000 in cash and pledges.

"I'm very gratified that our staff has shown this kind of support for the project," said Poteete. "It's just outstanding."

The fund drive, scheduled for completion by March 1, has already netted over $150,000 of a $350,000 goal.

For ambulance employees

Commissioners' Court to set hours and wages

Despite several previous postponements, hours and wages for County Ambulance Service employees are expected to be set during the Tuesday Commissioners' Court meeting.

A 48-hour work period, followed by 48 hours off, is the schedule which has received most attention from the commissioners. Wage schedules between $600 and $675 monthly have been set up by County Auditor Ben Kurio's office for the commissioners' consideration.

Although the court had passed a $40 per month across-the-board raise for county employees, commissioners stipulated that ambulance employees would not be included in the raise. Ambulance technicians had previously been employed by the individual cities. Since the county technically has paid them no salary, it cannot vote raises for them.

The wages and hours item was tabled during the December 8 court so commissioners could meet with the Labor Board December 10. Because there had not been enough time to prepare alternate wage schedules for the December 11 general meeting, action was again tabled.

COMMISSIONERS will also consider the resignation of Deputy Dale Swofford. Swofford announced his candidacy for Sheriff Friday.

Since notification of the resignation was made too late to go on the December 8 agenda, his resignation was noted by the court, but no official action could be taken on an item not on the agenda.

The court will also consider the appointment of a deputy to replace Swofford.

A request by the County Historical Commission concerning extra Xeroxing will also be reconsidered Monday. During the December 8 meeting the request was discussed, but commissioners did not have enough information about quantities and types of duplication to take action.

Additionally, the court will consider the resignation of Mrs. Clara Scarbrough, chairman of the Historical Commission.

"It is with a lot of regret that I step out, because I enjoyed it so much," Mrs. Scarbrough said of her chairmanship. She explained that she will be under a heavy responsibility to the city of Georgetown during its national bicentennial planning and celebration.

She does, however, plan to continue working for the Commission, though not in the executive capacity.

Mrs. Scarbrough is resigning from her second consecutive term as Historical Commission chairman. She held the position for three years.

A LEASE CONTRACT with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) for offices in the renovated Farmers' State Bank building on Austin Avenue is another item scheduled for the December 22 agenda. A bid of

WHEN CHRISTMAS COMETH in an odd year, can politics be far behind? Nope, and 1976 is going to be a big'un!

It appears that Williamson County will have an unusually large number of races, with quite a few hats already in the ring, including a GOP sombrero, of all things!

Then, of course, there is the national spectacle, with Ford already beleaguered by Ronald Reagan. At least one of our United States Senators is trying his wings for the presidency, along with dozens of other hopefuls. It doesn't matter what else happens, we can count on hearing a lot of political speeches in 1976.

Personally, I have already heard a political speech.

One of the things I am impressed with in church is the debt we owe the talented musicians who sing those beautiful songs and play the musical instruments so well. All churches have their favorites, of course, but since I am Methodist I have to limit my experiences there.

THE GEORGE NELSON family is my prime example. Mrs. Nelson (Frances), who sang for a number of years but no longer does, was my all-time favorite. How I used to enjoy her singing! All the Nelsons, papa, mama and the three children are musical and have added tremendously to the enjoyment of our church services. You can say the same for Tom and Corinne Douglass and one of our current stars is Tanya (Mrs. Dan) Gode. I won't try to name all of our musicians because that can't be done without neglecting some of the deserving, but the above are examples. They enrich our lives and soothe the soul. From me, thanks.

Week's news in a nutshell

TWO WEEKS INTO THE DRIVE for a new Georgetown Area Hospital, Campaign General Chairman J. H. Compton said contribution pledges totalling over $150,000 have been received from residents of Georgetown and western Williamson County.

"Everybody is really enthused about it," Compton said. "We're doing fine."

The goal of the campaign is to raise $350,000 in the western half of the county to help construct a new 60-bed hospital east of I35 in Georgetown.

THE FIRST REPUBLICAN to run for a Williamson County office in the history of the 128-year-old county publicly "threw his hat in the ring" Tuesday morning at a press conference in the Williamson County Courthouse rotunda.

Carroll Smyers of Round Rock will be running in the May Republican primary for the office of precinct one county commissioner.

The gala event will be set in a Bicentennial atmosphere with red, white and blue decorations enhancing the party area. Party-goers are encouraged to dress in 1776 costumes for the evening.

Music for the dance will be provided by the Country Blues of Burnet from 8 p. m. until midnight.

At midnight, a scrambled eggs and steak breakfast will be served by cooks Enno Rydstrand, L. A. Rutledge, Carroll Johnson, Miles Allen and Charles Saterfield.

For only $6 a person, you can spend the evening dancing and dining on steak and eggs.

Proceeds from the event will be used to finance Bicentennial projects, such as the hike and bike trail and the bandstand.

Tickets are available at the SUN office, from Vivian or Leo Wood, Wink Walden, Carroll Johnson, L. A. Rutledge, Mrs. Douglas Benold, Joann Morse, Lynn Burnette, Miles Allen, "Tiger" Ray, Bob Eli or Mayor Joe Crawford.

Only 400 tickets will be sold, so everyone will be guaranteed a place to sit.

For someone who has everything (or is hard to buy for or whatever), the tickets would make great Christmas gifts.

Harry Gold named CAPCO chairman

Harry Gold, Georgetown business and civic leader, was named chairman of The Capital Area Planning Council, a 10 county governmental agency, at its annual general meeting in Austin this week.

Gold, (past pro-tem mayor) and past Georgetown Chamber of Commerce president, had served as vice chairman of CAPCO (sometimes also called COG,) for the past four years. He was named to the board of directors of the organization six years ago.

CAPCO is operating on a $500,000 dollar budget, funded by the federal and state government and by local dues. Cities pay 10 cents per capita and counties ante up 5 cents per head.

The agency serves largely as a review board for the many federal grants that are now available to cities and counties. Whenever Georgetown, for instance, has a project it wants to get funded it lays the project in CAPCO's lap. The project is then reviewed by the proper committee, which then recommends to the executive committee, which meets monthly. This top committee, chaired now by Gold, makes the final decision to recommend or disapprove.

Projects include those dealing with highways, criminal justice, the aging, environment, drug abuse and are among many decided upon, Gold said.

It is also involved in helping the unemployable and handicapped train and develop skills necessary to find jobs. It has programs to develop more efficient law enforcement.

One of the more recent accomplishments of COG was a central dispatch system for law enforcement officers in the 10 county region that has already proven helpful, Gold pointed out.

"It's an honor and a challenge," Gold said.

Uncle Sam is the unwilling host to a horde of unwelcome visitors.

You want to know one reason our nation's improving economy is unable to soak up its unemployed? It's because there are millions of immigrants in the United States — illegally.

ILLEGAL ALIENS are streaming into the United States in such numbers that immigration officials use expressions such as "flood" and "national crisis" to describe the invasion.

Los Angeles City Councilman David Cunningham says half of the residents in his district are officially "invisible" because they are illegal aliens.

According to the census there are 14,000 people in his district, actually there are 30,000.

Technically, illegal aliens are not supposed to take jobs, yet hiring them is perfectly legal.

And these are no longer mostly Mexican wetbacks working in the fields of the Southwest. Now they are working in heavy industry, light industry, construction, driving taxis, working in clothing factories and restaurants.

TWO GREEK BROTHERS who jumped ship in New York were found months later in a crew painting the Statue of Liberty.

House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter Rodino (D-N.J.) concedes that aliens are holding many jobs that normally would be filled by American workers but his bill to make employment of illegal immigrants illegal has repeatedly been stalled in the Senate.

Even if the Rodino bill passes, the Immigration Service can do little to enforce it without first hiring an army of enforcement officers to increase its present staff of 4,200.

At the Mexican border we've been installing electronic sensors developed for the Vietnamese war to try to catch some of the more-than-a-million who cross that border illegally each year.

And, as in Vietnam, we are winning some battles but losing the war.

In Chicago alone some 350,000 illegal Mexican aliens have settled; the city catches up with maybe 12,000 a year.

IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS say they are concentrating their efforts on apprehending illegal aliens holding jobs which might otherwise go to native and naturalized Americans.

But this leaves other tens of thousands maintaining themselves on "welfare" with forged credentials which they can readily purchase for $25 to $100.

Illegal immigrants on welfare cost California $100 million a year!

When times were good Americans were more willing to "look the other way," but the recession-bred unemployment has roused resentment.

Even in Hawaii — our most hospitable and homogeneous state — where almost everybody is from elsewhere, legal Vietnam refugees are being turned away because they are an unwanted burden on the economy.

AMERICA CONTINUES to add 400,000 legal immigrants a year and illegal ones by the millions.

Eight million is the most educated guesstimate of the number of illegal aliens now in the United States — precisely the same as the number of our nation's present unemployed.

Good news (and bad) as year ends

As the old year fizzles out, an unusually large number of problems are bedeviling the country and the world.

There are even a few problems close by.

There is also good news!

THE NEW YEAR SHOULD be interesting as our best brains do their derndest to shore up the leaks and keep the old Ship of State headed toward safe harbors.

It looks, for instance, as if our taxes will be increased beginning next year. President Ford vetoed a bill he felt would be inflationary. Without the bill, however, temporary tax cuts meted out last year come to an end and the average working man will be taxed around $3 extra per week. Businessmen as well as wage-earners will also be hit harder.

Ford wanted a reduction in spending to accompany the tax reduction and Congress refused to bite that bullet. Democrats are crying that Ford was playing politics, Republicans say he was acting responsibly and claim the demos are building a national New York City with irresponsible deficit financing. So, what's new?

We think there is a good possibility that a tax reduction will still come out of the current squabble.

THE NATIONAL ECONOMY is ending the year with a rush upward. The third quarter GNP increased 13.4 per cent, said to be the highest gain for a three-month period in 25 years, but there are problems everywhere. Some local developers, the SUN has learned, are finding it more difficult to make payments on land and some are asking for extensions, or lower payments, as a result of a slowing down in home building.

The average Georgetown citizen is finding it harder to make ends meet because of higher taxes, increased utility rates and an ever-upward spiral of prices at the stores and the gasoline pump. An extra $3 per week income tax isn't going to make them love their President or Congressmen any more.

As Christmas week turns the corner local stores are busy with shoppers, a condition due to continue right up to Christmas Eve. Most of the buying is on a cash basis and the shoppers are purchasing good quality merchandise and wrapping the packages in expensive paper and ribbons. Television sets and other costly gifts are said to be moving well and there is an aura of happiness and good will prevailing over the entire community.

THE DRIVE FOR $350,000 to fund the birth of a fine hospital to serve the community is doing much better than expected with $150,000 reported in the till at mid-week. The experts, however, expect the second half of the drive to be much harder, as most large gifts are counted in that first $150 thousand.

It is note-worthy that $150 thousand is, in itself, the largest sum of money ever raised in Georgetown for a single project.

A newspaper article recently indicated that the polling profession is in trouble. It seems that the men and women who go the rounds to make inquiries of you and me about all subjects under the sun are encountering a strange resistance. There was a time when almost everyone had a secret longing to have his opinions polled. Now the response to the ringing of the doorbell is, if any, a furtive peering from behind drawn blinds, and then silence and darkness. Where the pollsters used to be assured of getting a response from 80 percent of those selected, they can now scarcely count upon 60.

Certain obvious explanations present themselves. People in the cities are scared; they do not readily open their door to the stranger. They are also much on the move, so that among those over 14 years of age the chances of anyone's being at home at a given time are statistically reduced. Finally, people are growing more concerned with their privacy. Having been peered at by sociologists, grilled by tax assessors, questioned more or less gently by students in quest of a Ph.D., they are quite prepared to keep their opinions to themselves. Such hypotheses are persuasive, and by themselves should make the pollsters uneasy. But there is, it seems to me, a deeper reason, one which if carried to its logical conclusion could negate the concept of polling and indeed revolutionize American life. This is a determination by the people — inarticulate and perhaps still largely unconscious — to find leaders in culture, in commerce and in politics who are prepared to offer them something better than a mishmash of their own previously stated opinions. They look for men who will take risks, going beyond the public's poorly conceived preferences and imperfectly expressed assumptions.

A basis for my explanation is to be found in the distress said to be felt by many segments of the country's so-called decisionmakers. According to the newspapers' report of the pollsters' troubles, the politician is demanding how he can act if the people don't tell him what he should do; the publisher and producer are asking what light will be left for them to work in, the advertising director is at loose ends. The discomfiture of these eminent gentlemen may be precisely what the public is, in its own way, seeking to accomplish. Examining my own feelings I find that I, too, take a wry satisfaction in their confusion.

Have we not all had enough of the politician who waits to be polled before committing himself to a position? I have read accounts of a book or movie which has supposedly been assured of success because every ingredient has been pretested. The subject-matter of the plot, the title, even the color of the jacket in the case of a book, have all been put together according to what the public has been found to prefer. And what is the result? The result is something the public ignores and discards, and that no amount of advertising will induce it to consume. In the same way the public will in the end reject a politician who gives them back only what he has been told they want.

We touch here on one of the oldest paradoxes of democracy. If the leader disregards men's desires and is deaf to their complaints, he will prove himself either a dictator or a fool. If he adapts to them slavishly he will betray the public he is called to serve. The true decision-maker does not mirror the polls. His vision goes deeper than the demands of the day, and embraces a country which the majority of his constituents have scarcely yet glimpsed. He has an instinctive deference to their wishes; he recalls, in Socrates' homely phrase, that they are best situated to know "where the shoe pinches." But he is not subservient to their wishes nor bound to follow anything but his own views of what is good.

Now I know, of course, that in the process of the wisest decision-making a full knowledge of the popular mind is an indispensable prerequisite. I make this bow to the pollsters to avoid getting irate letters from Gallupville, USA. But in American life, it seems to me, the balance has tipped too far toward a kind of decision-making which gives the public what it says it thinks it wants, and a reaction to this — even if it bedevils the work of the pollster — can only be a healthy sign.

'My life preserver floats better than your life preserver'

Our readers write

December 17, 1975

Dear Don:
I just had to take a moment to thank you for the kind words you wrote in your fine column "The Passing Glimpse" regarding my election as president of the Chamber of Commerce for 1976. I am hopeful I can live up to all the nice things you said about me in your article.

Don, you mentioned I was public-spirited. Yes I am. It is easy to be public-spirited when you live and work in a community such as Georgetown. There is no doubt in my mind this is the greatest place in which to live and raise a family in the world. I am aware this takes in a lot of territory but this is something I firmly believe. By virtue of my profession, which means daily contact and association with all segments of the community, I am firmly convinced that with the type of people residing here it will continue to be such a place in the future. The future looks great for Georgetown.

My pledge in the coming year will be to try and repay in whatever measure possible the many good things this community has given to me and my family since my return three and one-half years ago. It is a privilege to be able to live here.

Sincerely,
Bill Williams

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

By PATRICK CONWAY

AUSTIN — Phil Gramm, the little professor from down on the Brazos, may cause U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen some sleepless nights before the primary elections next spring. Gramm is running anything but a "Mr. Nice Guy" campaign against Bentsen for the Democratic nomination for senator.

In fact, he calls the senator a liar, but he chooses to use the words: "doubletalk and outright deceit."

Gramm took dead aim at Bentsen's claim that he had an excellent attendance record in Washington.

"When I first saw that, I thought it was a misprint," the former Texas A&M professor said. "But when I saw it again and again I knew that Bentsen was simply trying to hoodwink the people and the press."

Gramm thumbed through the "Congressional Quarterly" and noted that Bentsen was absent in 1974 for more than one out of every four record votes in the Senate.

"I find it shocking that a man who ties for the ninth worst in attendance in the United States Senate can go around bragging about his attendance record," Gramm said in a formal statement.

He claimed 91 senators are doing a better job of showing up for record votes than is the state's junior senator.

Gramm's name is hardly a household word in Texas, and he needs to do some ear boxing to bring attention to his bid as a staunch conservative candidate for the Senate.

It looks like he is picking up political street fighting in a hurry.

Earlier he accused Bentsen of keeping his Democratic presidential bid alive just so he could collect $800,000 in matching political funds from the Federal Treasury in January.

Gramm described this as "the sorriest reason I have ever heard anyone give for running for the highest office in the land."

But, Gramm notes, the U. S. Supreme Court may strike down the new federal election law, and that would mean no matching funds. Bentsen, he said, will then "have no further excuse for traipsing around the country missing votes in the Senate."

The two Republican candidates for the nomination for senator are probably watching Gramm's attacks with glee. U. S. Rep. Alan Steelman of Dallas is the favorite to get the nomination over Louis Leman, an unknown political quantity from Crosby.

Steelman has been putting together a bag of Bentsenisms that he plans to use against the senator when necessary. Some of those items like Bentsen's "nationalized" voting record as a presidential candidate are already turning off some of the senator's conservative supporters in Texas.

servative support, and Bentsen made a recent move to appease his conservative critics when he voted against the common situs picketing bill that organized labor supported.

It was a calculated risk that will cost Bentsen any support he may have had coming from the building and trades unions across the land. Austin labor leader Gerald Brown noted that Texas labor officials had opened a lot of doors for Bentsen with organized workers in other states, but "I'm afraid this (the common situs vote) closed them."

PRODUCERS SHOULD CHECK TAX CHANGES

Farmers and ranchers should pay particular attention to tax changes for 1975, says an economist. One change involves investment credit, which was increased to 10 percent for 1975 and 1976. Several permanent changes have also been made regarding investment credit. Also individuals with an annual income between $4,000 and $8,000 are eligible for a refundable tax credit on all earned income. In addition, the standard deduction has been increased to 16 per cent for 1975, and taxpayers can claim an additional $30 tax credit for each exemption. Changes have also been made in child care expense deductions and in the amount of income needed before filing a tax return.

CHRISTMAS POINSETTIAS NEED SPECIAL CARE

Poinsettias can provide attractive colors for your Christmas decor throughout the holiday season if cared for properly, points out a landscape horticulturist. Keep them in a sunny location away from sudden temperature changes caused by drafts, heat vents and opening doors. Proper watering is important because poinsettias have a high water requirement. Of course, overwatering should also be avoided as this will cause feeder roots to die and the plants will lose their foliage. Three weeks after receiving the plants and at three-week intervals, apply a liquid fertilizer until their color fades.

Jack Anderson Washington Merry-Go-Round

WASHINGTON — In the executive suites of almost all the top defense contractors are retired admirals and generals who are on a first-name basis with the Pentagon's big brass.

What branch of the government spends the most money? The military. Who is an expert on Pentagon red tape? An admiral or a general. So make him a corporate vice president.

By our own count, more than 1,400 high-ranking military officers have left the armed forces to accept jobs with defense contractors in the last five years.

Northrop Corporation, for example, has hired 53 former Defense Department employees since 1969.

Here are a few other typical examples:

— Boeing is the prime contractor for Minuteman missiles. It has hired at least four senior Pentagon officials who had jurisdiction over Minuteman missiles.

— Rockwell International produces B-1 bombers for the Air Force. One of the company's new executives is Harry Gaynor, who used to be chief of an Air Force unit dealing with B-1 bombers. Two other Rockwell executives, Thomas McGuire and Robert Mitchell, came out of the Air Force Contract Management Division.

— LTV operates one of the Air Force's major missile test ranges. The company now has on the payroll McLean Elliott who, as an Air Force general, has been in charge of budget planning for test ranges.

The fine art of gaining contracts, unfortunately, depends as much on political influence as professional competence. Sometimes, political influence is bought for cash under the table.

In the past, for example, we have reported how the Lockheed Corporation passed out $200 million to people in high places around the world. Now we've learned where most of the money went.

Payments were made to the air force chief in Colombia, the minister of defense in Italy and a high air force official in Mexico. Of course, Lockheed has been heavily subsidized by the American taxpayers.

So at least indirectly, our tax money has been used to pay off foreign officials to encourage them to buy Lockheed airplanes.

Political Football: President Ford is quietly preparing for the New Hampshire presidential primary next February. Like the football lineman he once was, he plans to charge, head-on, into his rival Ronald Reagan.

The political pundits are predicting Reagan will beat the President in New Hampshire. But Ford has quietly put together a formidable organization, which will soon start to blitz New Hampshire voters with letters, telephone calls and door-to-door solicitation.

The President believes he can defeat Reagan in two of the three states in which Reagan is making his strongest, early effort — New Hampshire and North Carolina. The other state, Florida, will be a tougher nut to crack.

Soused Soldiers: The Pentagon has asked Congress for $30 million next year to combat alcoholism in the armed services.

Yet the military brass encourage drinking by selling booze at cut-rate prices and holding frequent drinking parties. Liquor sales are used to subsidize recreational activities, military shops and even libraries.

It's no wonder, then, that there are twice as many alcoholics in uniform, percentage-wise, as in multi. In Europe, for example, the average military family drinks nearly three times more than their civilian counterparts in the United States.

"Buy American": President Ford has called upon us to buy products made in America. This is necessary, he said, to maintain our trade balance.

Some of his own associates, however, have paid no attention. Secretary of the Treasury William Simon, for example, drives a silver Mercedes. Transportation Secretary William Coleman motors around in a blue one.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld drives a Volvo, and Housing Secretary Carla Hills prefers a cream-colored Audi.

Christmas Story: The newspapers have been full of unfavorable stories about the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover. We were the first to expose Hoover's excesses in a series of columns back in 1970 and 1971. But we have just discovered another side of Hoover that, in fairness, should be told.

For 32 years, he directed a quiet effort every Christmas to bring food and toys to more than 1,300 needy families. He collected the Christmas loot from rich friends such as toy manufacturer Louis Marx. Then Hoover assigned the FBI to find families that were most in need of the donations.

He personally supervised the distribution, as if it were a top-secret FBI operation.

Soviet Secret: Confidential cables from Moscow report that the Soviet people still haven't been told about the massive Soviet grain purchases in this country. A spokesman at the Soviet embassy explained that the Kremlin "didn't want to arouse panic among the people."

Pot Projects: At least 18 separate government research projects involving marijuana are now underway. Tests have been performed on military men, chimpanzees, dogs and even albino rabbits. Here are some of the unpublished results:

— The CIA injected marijuana, in varying doses, into male albino rabbits. Those that got the big doses died within one minute. But the smaller doses merely caused the rabbits to become hyperactive.

— Researchers for the Drug Enforcement Administration fed marijuana to six trained chimpanzees. It cost the taxpayers more than $50,000 to find out that marijuana makes monkeys hungry.

— The Army's experiments with pot smokers showed that heavy smoking caused lung damage. But otherwise, the marijuana cigarettes didn't reduce GI efficiency noticeably.

A Case Against Gloom

BY HOWARD FLIEGER

Want to thaw the chill of late winter with some comforting reading about this country and its 213 million people?

You might try a book by Ben J. Wattenberg — The Real America (published by Doubleday) — which was completed late last year and seems even more timely now.

In no sense is Mr. Wattenberg a "cockeyed optimist." He is a serious social and economic analyst who has plunged into a sea of statistics — the U.S. Census, public-opinion polls, market, industry and academic surveys and such. He comes up laughing at the doomsayers. To quote his conclusion:

"The dominant rhetoric of our time is a rhetoric of failure, guilt and crisis."

"The evidence of the data is the evidence of progress, growth and success."

What's "progress"? Mr. Wattenberg defines the word as meaning "a condition that is better by far than what it replaces after accounting for any side effects."

For a sampling of his examples:

"Real family income, after inflation, has doubled in a generation."

Fringe benefits — job equities that don't show up in pay envelopes — advanced from 23.4 billion dollars in 1960 to 79.7 billion in 1972, and they're still growing.

By official definition, a fifth of all Americans were living in poverty in 1959. Now the total is half that.

Between 1960 and 1970 people on the bottom rung gained .6 percent in their income, while those on the top rung lost 2.2 percent. But don't feel sorry for the well-to-do. In 1952 there were 202,000 households with incomes of $25,000 or more. Twenty years later there were 4,225,000.

Mr. Wattenberg doesn't confine progress to material gains. His data show:

College enrollment in 1960 was more than 3.5 million. By 1973

it had reached 8.6 million, and is estimated to exceed 10 million by 1980. Furthermore, about 60 percent of today's college students come from families in which the head of the household never completed one year of college. Among blacks, the figure goes up to 80 percent.

The number of women in the professions has gone up sharply, and there has been a "great increase" in the percentage of women in the total labor force.

Americans now start working later, put in fewer hours and retire earlier.

Mr. Wattenberg's analyses are sure to be controversial. For one thing, he sideswipes the various "libs" — women's, black's, consumer's — because, he suggests, they either don't recognize their gains or they deliberately fudge them to keep causes going.

The author's own conclusion is that while the hand-wringers have been deploring the sad state of America, we have become "the first Massive Majority Middle Class society in history" — something of a marvel.

What is this new middle class doing with its hard-earned money? It's not being frittered away, as you might think. Figures in the book show the faster rises in family spending are on education, health, recreation and housing. Among the slower risers are cosmetics, alcohol, jewelry. Says Mr. Wattenberg: "The point is that given a vast increase in discretionary income over the last decade, the broad spending trends have been commonsensical and worthwhile."

The hero of this fascinating book: the American people — "smarter, wiser, calmer, shrewder, tougher and more forgiving than their critics of the left and of the right."

Mr. Wattenberg, digesting all the data of two decades, sketches his hero as resourceful, adaptable, independent — and a chronic complainer. His guess for the future: Americans will continue to complain about their lot — and go right on progressing.

New seed drill purchased for conservation district

A new grass seed drill will soon be available to farmers and ranchers in the Little River-San Gabriel Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD).

District Conservationist Lyle McAndrew said the district has purchased a $2100 Brillion seeder.

It will be located in Florence on the property of B. T. Preslar, SWCD custodian of equipment.

THE DRILL is designed to plant small grass seeds such as Kleingrass and wintergreen Harding grass. It will be available to farmers and ranchers on a rental basis.

McAndrew said he expects rental cost for the seeder will be about $1.50 per acre. To rent the drill, contact Preslar.

McAndrew said the district has also owned a Nesbitt seed drill for several years, which has done an excellent job of seeding small grasses.

According to the conservationist, hundreds of acres of Kleingrass were planted in both the Taylor and Little River-San Gabriel SWCDs last year.

Mrs. James Barksdale of Georgetown attended a recent volunteer coordinators seminar in the Austin offices of the First Lady's Volunteer Program. Mrs. Barksdale is an area volunteer chairman for Williamson County. The purpose of the day long seminar was to show the area coordinators how to work effectively with community groups in volunteer efforts.

OFFICERS INSTALLED — Mrs. Claude Mayo (left), outgoing president of the American Association of Retired Persons, installs the new officers at the Pioneer Dinner in Stonehaven Center Tuesday night. New officers are Mrs. Pearl Munson, president; Mrs. Jewel Carter, vice-president; Mrs. Thelma Cunningham standing in for Mrs. Gracie Young, secretary; and C. H. Stevenson, treasurer. AARP programs include Vigor in Maturity (VIM) and teaching defensive driving.

Williamson County commuters warned

Icy weather could close IH 35 in Austin

Georgetown and Williamson County commuters to Austin should be prepared this winter for the possibility that Interstate Highway 35 might occasionally be closed along its entire course through the central part of the city.

The Texas State Highway Department said Friday that when driving conditions become icy and hazardous, motorists may be restricted to lower lanes of the interstate and its frontage roads, or possibly to the frontage roads only.

Department spokesmen said their District 14 office, in cooperation with the Austin Police Department, will first close entrance ramps to the overhead sections of the highway when conditions become dangerous.

IN THAT EVENT, barricades will be placed at access points on both the north and south ends of the overhead. Signs indicating icy road conditions will also be placed along the interstate prior to where the overhead section begins, to alert motorists that it has been closed.

Drivers would then be restricted to the lower lanes.

If conditions worsened, restrictions might also apply to the lower lanes.

Southbound motorists might not be allowed onto the interstate from its intersection with U.S. 183 all the way to the entrance ramp at 15th Street.

Northbound drivers might not have access to the expressway from First Street to past Airport Boulevard.

IF NECESSARY, all entrance ramps between those points could be closed, and traffic would have to continue north and south on the frontage roads.

Traffic lights at intersections along the frontage roads would be adjusted, and the Austin Police Department would help direct traffic at the intersections.

The Highway Department advised commuters from Williamson County to consider these alternative routes if both upper and lower lanes are closed.

ON THE EAST SIDE of I-35, take the U.S. 81 exit or the FM 1325 exit to Lamar Boulevard.

On the west side of the highway, take U.S. 183 to Bluestein Boulevard.

The department also explained why traffic might be restricted to the lower lanes throughout the central city.

First, ice could make bridges in several locations hazardous.

Due to construction on the lower lanes in the 26th Street area, a bottleneck could also develop for both north and southbound travelers.

THE ELEVATED ROADWAY will freeze more quickly than the lower levels, and will be slower to thaw.

If accidents occurred on the interstate because of ice, traffic congestion probably could be alleviated more easily on the lower lanes and frontage roads than on the overhead.

Since there is only one entrance and one exit to the overhead, wreckers and Austin police would have difficulty reaching an accident scene because of ice and traffic bottlenecks.

Department spokesmen pointed out that there is no absolute plan for controlling traffic on the interstate in icy weather, but motorists should use extreme caution and be alert to signs and barricades indicating traffic movement, as well as police directing traffic.

Peace Lutheran Church of Leander service will now be conducted in their new building located on highway 620, 1.2 miles west of 183, starting with Christmas eve services.

Services on December 24 will begin at 6:30 p. m. Although there will be no heat or electricity, everyone is invited. Pastor of Peace Lutheran, Stephen D. Quill, informed the congregation "to prepare for this service, bring flashlights, warm clothes and an open mind." He also stated "This service will be most memorable."

Regular church services are every Sunday at 9:30 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. for Sunday School. The church formerly met at Pond Springs Elementary School.

What's Happening?

The annual work day for the Pan American Student Forum (better known as the Spanish Club at Georgetown High School), consisted of members performing chores of clearing old pieces of lumber laying about the log cabin being restored on Austin Avenue. Through the encouragement of Mrs. Clara Scarbrough and Mrs. Ray McCoy, sponsor of PASF, the members plan to continue work on the cabin after Christmas.

Working members were Joe Tays, president, Hilda Guevara, treasurer, Elizabeth Vasquez, reporter, Donna Beggs, Rita Scott and Jeannie Clifford.

Mrs. Della Pope celebrated her 96th birthday on December

10 with a party hosted by her children. Birthday cake, coffee and tea were served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Willie Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pope and grandson, Greg Shelton, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Pope, Floyd Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Whitley, Mrs. Betty Ball and children, Willie Gay, James David, Larry Todd and Amy Ball, Mrs. Rutley Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Allmon, Mrs. Felma Headrick and Mrs. Archie Davis.

Brenda Low hosted the December meeting of Xi Xi Nu. Mrs. Adrienne Dedear and Mrs. Bill Shelby presented a dual program, "Women Who Have Made A Difference" and "Viva La Difference."

Mrs. Leland Preiss presided at the business session and welcomed Ms. Nancy Webb as a new member. The group finalized plans for the annual Christmas party. Christmas caroling at selected homes in the community will begin the December 17 activities. Members and their families will then gather at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. Lee Fulkles for refreshments and exchange of gifts. 1975 secret sisters will be revealed at this time. Mrs. Don Chandler will host the January 13 meeting.

Entomology Notes

by ROBERT E. GLOTT, JR.,
County Extension Entomologist
CONTROL GREENBUGS ON SMALL GRAINS—Small grain producers need to be on the lookout for rapidly growing greenbug populations in their fields, says Bob Glott, county entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

During the past week, greenbug numbers increased in many of the small grain fields in Williamson and Milam Counties. Greenbug counts ranged from 2 to 175 greenbugs per linear foot of row. In all but one instance, greenbug levels had not reached damaging proportions. If the daytime temperatures remain warm and we do not get some moisture in these small grains, greenbug populations can be expected to increase very rapidly. The bugs, which are about 1/16th-inch long and light green with a dark green stripe down their back, inject a toxin into plants while feeding on them. This causes the plant to turn yellow and eventually die. Any type of stress such as lack of moisture will increase the damage done by greenbugs.

"In some cases," says Bob Glott, "greenbugs have become resistant to insecticides. Insecticide control failure may be due to application, temperature or coverage problems."

Bob Glott advised checking fields at regular intervals during the growing season and at least once a week if the greenbug population is increasing. Before using an insecticide, a producer should consider such things as plant vigor, moisture conditions, stage of growth and the presence or absence of parasites and predators.

Effective insecticide controls of greenbugs on small grains are methyl parathion, parathion, malathion, disulfoton (Di-Syston) and dimethoate. With parathion and methyl parathion, fields should not be grazed for 15 days after use. Malathion is less toxic and grazing can commence after seven days. Dimethoate should be used for wheat only and grazing can start after 14 days. Disulfoton should not be used on small grain fields which are grazed with livestock.

Since greenbug populations can increase rapidly, regular field checks are the key to heading off severe damage, points out Bob Glott.

THE WINTER TICK AND THE BLACK LEGGED TICK have been found on cattle in Williamson County in large numbers. The winter tick is a one-host tick. It attaches to a host as the larva or "seed tick" and remains on the same host to molt from the immature stages to the adult stage. The adult female lays the host after engorgement and fertilization to deposit eggs. As the common name implies, this tick is usually found on animals during the winter. In most of their Texas ranges, the larva become active during the fall or the first cool weather and remain active during the winter and spring. The adult population of winter ticks normally reaches its peak during the latter part of November or December. In January the population begins to dwindle, and by February and March, only a few adults are found on animals. Each female usually deposits 3,000 to 4,000 eggs that require three to six weeks for hatching.

FULL HOUSE—Carol Zrubek's fourth grade class sings "Child of God" during the Christmas program at Westside Intermediate School Thursday afternoon to an audience full of parents, friends and teachers. Each class sang a Christmas song for the group.

Voter bill court order raises lots of questions

Dilemma.

Since a court order making re-registration optional for voters unless they have changed addresses or voting boxes took the teeth out of Senate Bill 300, Texas tax assessor-collectors are faced with a dilemma.

They can mail the already-prepared applications which voters are not required to return. Or they can wait to ask for new information required by the bill when new voter registration certificates are mailed out — whenever that might be.

The court order requiring enclosure of a disclaimer to the section in registration applications, stating that nonresponse would result in deletion from voter lists, came too late for many tax assessors to comply with the December 31 mailing deadline required by the bill.

IN RESPONSE to many complaints concerning the deadline from Texas Assessors, Secretary of State Mark White has notified them that "if you determine that the mailing of application forms with the enclosures required by the court order is impossible to accomplish within the time limits of S.B. 300, or if the mailing of such application forms will render it impossible for you to mail voter registration certificates within the time limit of S.B. 300, then you may dispense with such mailing.

"However," the notification warns, "S.B. 300 requires certain new voter registration information be kept by your office and forwarded to the Secretary of State. If your office does not have this information in your current voter registration files, then you should include a request for any required information you do not have at the time you mail the voter registration certificates."

CHANGES from the previous registration bill, Senate Bill 51, deal mostly with more precise information regarding applications.

Married women are required to give their first and maiden names, rather than responding with their husband's name prefixed by "Mrs."

While birthdates had been required only of persons under 21 years of age, now all voters will need to furnish this information.

A street address, or description of the exact location of residents (i.e., "three miles east of Georgetown on County Road 300"), is required in addition to any mailing address differing from the residence address.

CONCERNED with the cost of postage for nearly 15,000 re-registration applications, Williamson County Tax Assessor - Collector William Buck has decided to hold the applications, which his office readied for mailing weeks ago, for an as-yet undetermined time, waiting for further word from the office of the Secretary of State.

"We're lucky — we've only spent a little bit so far," Buck said, referring to the cost of printing envelopes for the mailing. Although the re-registration mailings were required by State law, county taxes will be used to fund the procedure.

The Williamson County expenditure, under $300, does fall far below the $20,000 spent by Travis County to mail out only some of its application forms. The tax assessor-collector there has now also decided to wait for more information from White's office before spending any more county money on postage, Buck reports.

Burnet County, Buck says, is following the same logic of wait and see.

But Williamson County won't wait until postage goes up to mail the applications, Buck is quick to assure — should it be deemed necessary to mail them at all.

WHATEVER officials in Texas and in Williamson County decide, one question the dilemma raises has a sure answer.

No one who is eligible to vote and who desires to do so will be barred from voting in the next election, the May 1 primaries, even if the dilemma is not wholly resolved by May and voters have to use their old registration cards.

AND THIS GIFT GOES TO — Santa Claus, assisted by Joyce Perry at the Mary Bailey Child Development Center, passes out gifts to the children and staff members as John Alan Medrano and Stevie Berrera wait their turn. Santa's generosity was apparent as the floor was covered with gift wrappings in a short time. Refreshments were served afterwards. Rosetta Rose is the director of the center.

Granger dam bids opened

J. D. Abrams, Inc. of El Paso submitted the apparent low bid this week for accessory construction on the Granger Dam at Laneport.

The company offered to complete the work in 1200 calendar days for $18,682,343. Abrams bid was one of nine which ranged up to $27,642,518. Bids were opened at the Fort Worth District offices of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Col. Joe H. Sheard, Fort Worth District Engineer, said the work includes excavation of a spillway, and construction of an earthen embankment, concrete slab, stilling basin, retaining walls, service bridge with steel superstructure, concrete deck and piers, and paved access roads.

THE CORPS ALSO recently opened bids for the same work at the North Fork Lake Dam. Apparent low bidder for that contract was the Dahlstrom Corp. of Dallas at $11,326,122.10.

No bids have been awarded, but Procurement Chief J. W. Tittsworth said bids might be accepted in December.

According to Ronald Zunker, resident engineer for the two projects, work at the North Fork Dam could begin by the middle of January and construction on the Granger Dam might begin at about the same time. Construction of the two projects is expected to be completed approximately three and a half years after it begins.

THE NORTH FORK DAM will be located about 3.5 miles west of Georgetown, with the Granger structure to be built about seven miles east of Granger.

Both dams are part of a flood-control project designed to control flooding on the San Gabriel River. The program was established by the Flood Control Acts of 1954 and 1962.

Once completed, the North Fork Dam will give the area six additional recreational facilities, with over six miles of hiking trails and 1272 acres of wildlife preserve.

PRESENTATION OF MINERALS — Sam Goldenberg of the Williamson County Gem and Mineral Society made a presentation of minerals to the earth science classes at the Georgetown Junior High School Monday afternoon. The rarest specimen in the collection was Trinitite, a manmade mineral created by the fusion of sand during the explosion of the first atomic bomb in New Mexico in 1943. Earth science teachers are Larry Loudamy and Ruby Buie. Students viewing the specimen are Trish Faughnan, Carole Grohman and Nancy Rothhammer. Mineral samples were collected in Mexico, Brazil and all over the United States.

Round Rock school district gets regional accreditation

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, through its Commission on Secondary Schools and Commission on Elementary Schools, has awarded accreditation to the Round Rock Independent School District, grades K-12. The announcement was made by Commission officials during the Southern Association's 80th Annual Meeting held in Atlanta, Ga., December 7-10.

Approximately 200 of the 1100 districts of Texas have regional accreditation status for all grades K-12. Other Central Texas Schools to share this distinction with Round Rock are Seguin, New Braunfels and Eanes.

This accreditation is based on an evaluation of the school to determine if it meets not only the needs of the students and community but also the standards of quality of the Commission. The evaluation process includes self-study by the school and review by a visiting committee of professional educators representing the Association's member secondary schools.

Founded in 1895, the Southern Association is a voluntary, nongovernmental agency composed of nearly 10,000 colleges and universities, occupational institutions, and secondary and elementary schools. It is one of six regional accrediting associations in the United States and encompasses 11 southern states from Virginia to Texas.

The purpose of regional accreditation is to improve the quality of education. Each member school must carry on a continuing program of improvement and, to maintain its accreditation, must submit annual reports and undergo periodic reevaluation.

Noel Grisham, Superintendent of Round Rock Schools, said major credit for this achievement goes to Mrs. Rowena Stone, Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction, and to the principals and teachers, and to the earlier commitment of the Board of Trustees.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD M. WILSON

The school is undeniably a necessary part of every community and surely everyone realizes that to operate a school efficiently and adequately is going to be expensive. The operation and the administration of the school is the responsibility of people who have been duly elected and hired for this specific purpose, but they must have the confidence and support of the citizenry. It is illogical to think that these people are going to spend more money than the needs require, or for anything that is not necessary. After all, these people are taxpayers, and they too are sharing the expense.

School Board Members put in many hours with no pay except for the satisfaction of knowing that they are doing something worthwhile; quite often the job they are doing is completely thankless. Let's all consider the magnitude of the service that these people are rendering, and then at least appreciate what they are doing for all of us.

Our school, our School Board, our Faculty and Administration are things that we can point to with pride, and we can also be proud that our community has never failed to approve any bond issue!

The Community Basketball League, a program for all boys and girls in grades 3 through 6, lest you have not heard, will be organized at a special meeting in the Liberty Hill School Gym on January 10, 1976. Anyone who desires any additional information concerning this program is urged to contact Coach Daryl Moffitt. This is a very good thing for our community—LET'S ALL SUPPORT IT!

All of you "Sunday Sun" readers who get your Sun on Saturday morning can consider yourself reminded of the concert and BAKE SALE that our Panther Band will give in front of the Gibson Store in Georgetown beginning at noon today. At 5 p.m. there will be a drawing in Liberty Hill Square, our park on Main Street, to determine the winner of the painting that has been so generously donated to our band by Grace Williams. There is still time to make donations to make yourself eligible to be the

Georgetown Noon Lions Club directors, meeting Wednesday, recommended that club members be presented a recommendation to give $1500 to the Georgetown Area Hospital Development Fund, $1,000 to be delivered after the club votes on the measure January 14 and $500 to be given after next year's pancake supper, the organization's main fund-raising event.

Claude Hays, president, said the club had the funds available and that the project would be in keeping with the service goals of Lionism.

DAR honors three Good Citizens

Three are high school seniors, Randall Vickers of Georgetown, Miss Kim LeMaster of Round Rock and Miss Lisa Williams of Florence, were special guests at the December 13 meeting of the Daniel Coleman Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution.

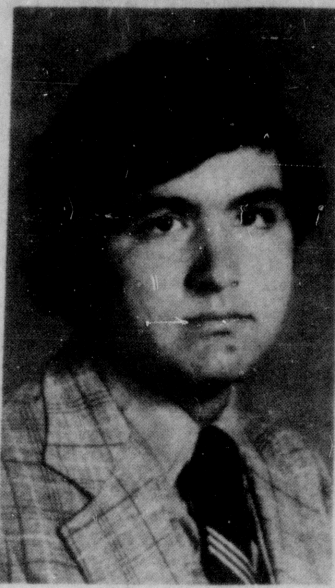

Each year, with the cooperation of the principals of the Florence, Georgetown and Round Rock high schools, the Daniel Coleman Chapter awards three high school seniors the DAR Good Citizen Certificates and Pins.

Mrs. C. M. Kauffman, chairman of the Good Citizen Committee, presented certificates and pins to the DAR Good Citizens, Randall Vickers, Kim LeMaster and Lisa Williams. The Daniel Coleman Chapter DAR is proud of these young people, their efforts and their accomplishments in their schools, homes, churches and communities.

Competition for these awards, previously restricted to senior girls, has this year been extended to include senior boys. These young people were elected by their respective schools as having the qualities of leadership, dependability, service and patriotism to an outstanding degree.

In January the names and papers of each will be entered as the Daniel Coleman Chapter DAR nominees for the State Society DAR Good Citizen Award.

The aim of the DAR Good Citizens Committee, which sponsors the awards given by

RANDALL VICKERS
... DAR Good Citizen

Daniel Coleman Chapter is to stress the qualities of good citizenship in high schools and to develop those high ideals which form the basis of good citizenship. This project reaches many young people throughout the United States who are leaders among their peers and America's hope for the future. It is a program designed to encourage an appreciation of the privileges and responsibilities of being good citizens.

The qualifications by which these young people have been selected as Good Citizens are: —Dependability —which includes truthfulness, reliability, loyalty and punctuality.

—Service cooperation, courtesy, consideration of others and performance of duty.

—Leadership — personality, self-control, responsibility, and the ability to guide or direct.

—Patriotism — unselfish interest in family, school, church, community and nation.

Randall Vickers, son of Mrs. Corinne Vickers of Georgetown, has been a district band winner for three years, chosen student of the month by the National Honor Society, treasurer of the Student Council, vice-president of the high school band, treasurer of the San Gabriel Chapter of the Junior Historians, sports editor of the high school annual staff and coordinator of student activities for special events. He has also tutored sixth grade band members. He is active in the Georgetown Church of Christ.

She has served willingly in community activities. She utilizes her hobbies of cooking and sewing for her family and home.

Kim plans to attend Baylor University next year, possibly studying government and politics.

Saegert home wins CC Christmas prize

Prizes were awarded Friday by the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce to four area business and homeowners who obviously took extra care to add a special Christmas aura to Georgetown this season.

Receiving the award for the best total home Christmas decoration were Mr. and Mrs. Joe Saegert of 1807 Dawn.

The prize for Christmas decorated window went to Tom Hughes, 2100 Dawn Drive.

Receiving a prize for the best door were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Braun of 2400 Oak.

H & H Mobile Home Park, 300 W. Valley, was awarded the prize for the best decorated business.

All four winners received a plaque and a turkey.

a mobile home fire which claimed the lives of two other children, both three years old, north of Florence Tuesday night.

The blaze was thought to have begun in the kitchen area of the Terry L. Brown home. The sleeping children, ranging from three to ten years old, were alone at the time of the fire.

A RECORD TURNOUT of 902 Leander voters emphatically said "no" Saturday to their school board's request for $1.176 million to repair and add to school facilities. Residents voted 689-213 against the district's bond proposal, which failed to carry any of five voting boxes.

THIRTY LOCAL MERCHANTS are participating in a free drawing to decide the winner of a Zenith AM-FM stereo and record player and an RCA color television Christmas Eve, Gary Seaman, manager of KGTV announced. He estimated the value of the prize, on display in the city offices, at approximately $600.

CHANGES in the architect's plans for the classroom addition at Westside Intermediate School, a new tax exemption law and a recent audit were the main subjects of discussion on the agenda by Georgetown school trustees Monday night.

THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY of the founding of the local Daniel Coleman Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution was held Saturday in the old Emerson homestead, now the family home of Mrs. Camilla Durrenberger, hostess for the occasion. The first meeting of the Daniel Coleman Chapter DAR was held in Georgetown on December 7, 1925.

★ Commissioners

$3,765 for heating and air conditioning for the building was accepted December 8. Other improvements are under way.

The court promised ASCS could move into the offices early in the new year.

SPENDING $25 yearly to subscribe to the magazine "Texas Register" will be discussed. A new publication of the Secretary of State's office, "Texas Register" will include rules of state agencies, executive orders of the Attorney General, notices of open meetings and other matters relating to routine workings of state government. It is advertised as "a clear and current account of what the administrative arm of state government is doing."

The $25 will cover 100 issues, to be received Tuesdays and Fridays beginning in January. Commissioners will study two retirement plans for county employees. The plans were submitted by the Texas County and District Retirement System.

The court will also consider certification of Judge Kirby Vance concerning the annual appointment of a county auditor, his first assistant and assistant auditor.

Salary adjustments for the court reporter and the county probation officer will be considered, as will the hiring of an assistant probation officer, Perry Cox.

Additionally, the court will consider releasing a letter of credit on Brushy Bend Park and will hold preliminary hearings on Town and Country Village Addition, Jenks Branch Subdivision and The Woodland Village, and a final hearing on Lake Creek Village at Anderson Mill.

home, Wayne Gattis still kept traces of a sense of humor.

"I bet if that freezer is still left, we've got some barbecued beef inside," he told his father-in-law.

KAY GATTIS, visibly shaken, still retained enough composure to tell her mother, "Well, your Christmas present was in there too, you might as well know now what is was."

The Gattis' and their son Kenneth told firemen to pull down what was left of the walls.

"It was a big jar," said Babe Raum, "and we've got a heck of a job left to do to clean up and see if there is still a foundation there."

As of Friday, cause of the fire remained undetermined.

"God only knows what started it," said Raum.

SERVICES WERE SET for Saturday in Florence for two three-year-old boys who died in a mobile home fire north of the city Tuesday night.

A spokesman for the Young Funeral Home said memorial services would begin at 3 p.m. Saturday for Joshua Brown and Jeffery Lynn Green. Services will be held at the First Baptist Church in Florence.

Winifred Boggs will deliver a eulogy at the services.

The youngsters died Tuesday when the mobile home in which they slept three miles northeast of Florence on county road 228 burned.

TEN-YEAR-OLD JEFFERY BROWN saved three other children and himself from that fire, and attempted to save the three-year-olds but was blocked by flames.

The elder Brown youngster managed to get Jonathon Brown, nine, Jason Brown, five, and Lonna Green, five, out of the burning trailer and drove them in a car to the home of Harold Ramm half a mile away.

Ramm and members of the Florence Volunteer Fire Department were on the scene within minutes, but too late to save the youngsters.

Cause of that fire was also undetermined. Joshua Brown is survived by his father, S/ Sgt. E-6 Terry Lee Brown; his mother, Gerita Brown; and three brothers, Jeffery, Jonathan, and Jason.

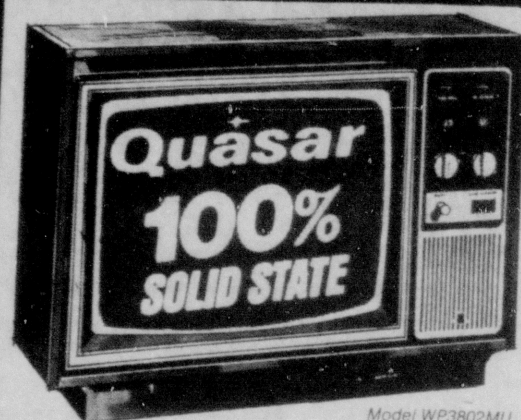

Jeffery Lynn Green, Jr. is survived by his father, S/ Sgt. E-6 Jeffery Lynn Green, Sr.; his mother, Charlotte Green; and one sister, Lonna Green.

Burial for Joshua Brown will be at Memorial Garden in Medford, Oregon.

Burial for Jeffery Green Jr. will be at Lewis and Clark Memorial Cemetery in Lewiston, Idaho.

Amana Touchmatic Radarange

MICROWAVE OVEN

FOR CHRISTMAS!

Makes microwave cooking simple as 1-2-3!

The Amana Touchmatic Radarange Microwave Oven makes it possible to get food from the freezer to the table, sizzling hot, with one setting at the beginning. It's as easy as 1-2-3!

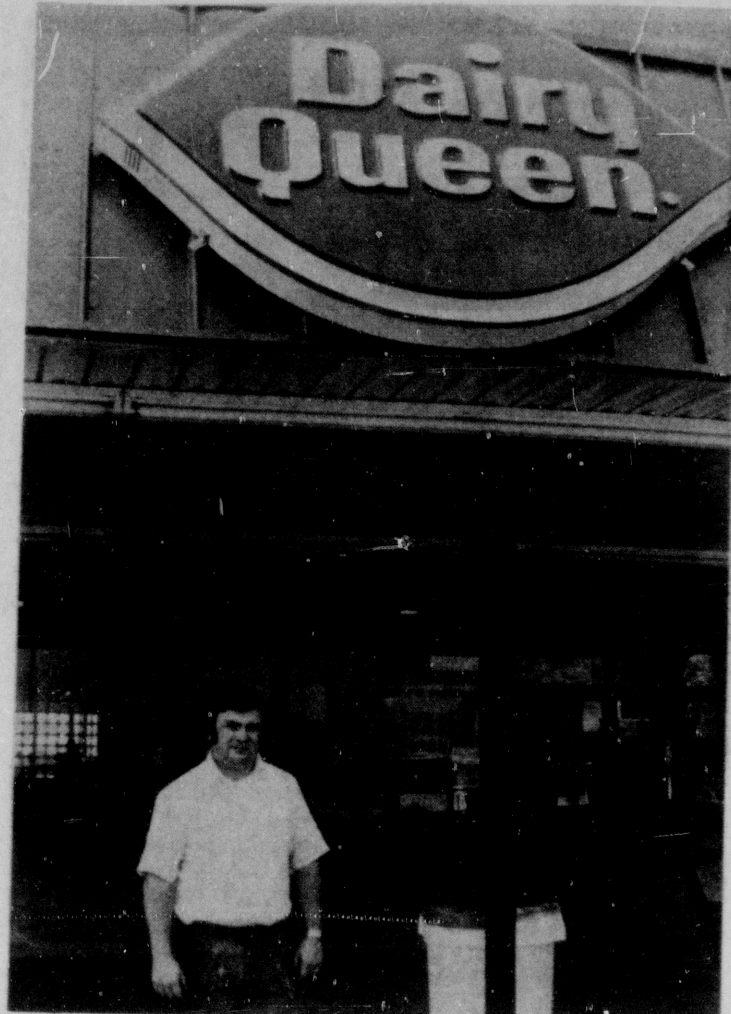

You can set it to defrost and slow cook — or defrost and cook — in combination. Put in a frozen roast. Touch the numbers for defrosting time and cooking time — and the solid state "computer" takes over. It will defrost the roast — then automatically wait for the temperature to even — and cook the roast. It's all automatic. Cooks everything with split second accuracy and tells you dinner's ready with a "beep."

There's a digital clock on the control panel that displays the time of day in big, bright numbers. When you're cooking, this is a split second timer that displays the remaining cooking time. Then when cooking's done — it remembers, and displays the time of day again automatically.

Come in for a demonstration. You've got to see the Amana Touchmatic Radarange oven in action to really understand how incredibly versatile microwave cooking can be.

Swofford files for sheriff

Dale Swofford, former deputy sheriff for Williamson County, filed Friday morning to run for the office of sheriff in the May 1 primary.

Swofford resigned his post as deputy December 11.

At the time, Swofford said, "I just needed to get out from under some pressure I was under to make a decision I need to make."

In a press release, he said he had resigned "to consider the requests of my friends to run for the office of sheriff."

Swofford proposes a Juvenile Detention Center for Williamson County, stating both his concern for area youth and his feeling that "the confines of any penal institution is no place for juvenile offenders."

The ex-deputy has spent over seven years in law enforcement, is a certified Texas Peace Officer, a graduate of Central Texas College Law Enforcement Academy and a former deputy for Travis County. He has attended Southwest Texas State University courses in investigation, arrest, searches and seizures, and legal aspects, and is trained in penal and correctional institution procedures.

Incumbent Sheriff August Bosshard had previously filed for re-election in the May primary.

the Star

CHRISTMAS tree ornaments are made to resemble snow, unusual patterns of ice, and frost; however, the most beautiful ornament and symbol is the star for the top of the tree. This is to remind us of that wonderful day when the child Jesus was born in a manger and the star shown the way. "for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him." Let the star on the tree remind you to attend church and worship him too.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
